May Be Ready by Spring

Flood Insurance Is Delayed Over Rates

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—The new federal program of providing insurance against flood losses is taking definite shape but you won't be able to buy it today or even tomorrow.

The delay, if you could call it that since the program just received presidential approval on Aug. 7, hangs on the determination of rates considered adequate to pay claims, yet low enough for the average homeowner.

Frank J. Meistrall, appointed two weeks ago as commissioner of the program, today expressed hope that the new bureau within the Housing and Home Finance Agency will be able to offer the federally backed and subsidized policies before next spring's flood season.

While he is giving thanks that the fall storm season is not staging repeat performances of the 1955 and early 1956 disasters that spurred congressional action in the field, he is relieved of pressures to bring the program into being before major problems are solved.

Is A Compromise
The act, passed in the final days of the last Congress, represents a compromise between a so-called administration proposal by Sen. Bush (R-Conn.), another by Sen. Lehman (D-N. Y.) and major amendments sponsored by Rep. Dodd (D-Conn.).

Besides the federally subsidized insurance feature, the act also includes a federally guaranteed loan program for prospective flood victims and a system of reinsurance for private companies which might enter the field.

The whole basis for federal insurance protection against flood damage is that insurance against individual and public loss is not now available through private or public sources because of the inability of such sources to spread the risk over a broad enough base to bring premiums within reasonable limits.

Found Justified
Congress found that because flood disasters impede interstate and foreign commerce, hamper national defense, and cause widespread distress and adversely affect the general welfare, the federal government was justified in providing the insurance protection itself, or at least until it could be determined whether such a venture was economically feasible.

In broad terms, the commissioner is directed to establish a schedule of "estimated rates" for the flood insurance which, in his judgment, will pay probable losses while remaining in the realm of marketability.

60 Per Cent by Buyer
The buyer will be required to at least 60 per cent of the premium with the government absorbing the balance, plus administrative expenses which shall not be charged against the policies.

The loan section of the act provides that the commissioner may enter into contracts with prospective flood victims guaranteeing the availability of federally backed loans at not more than 4 per cent interest to cover flood losses up to $250,000 or the difference between losses and insurance coverage, if any.

The reinsurance of policies which may be issued by private companies is a portion of the act not now receiving Meistrall's major attention because there is precedent for such procedure whereas there is virtually none for the problems involved in the insurance and loan provisions.

Advice Sought
Meistrall, already has called in representatives of commercial insurance companies and insurance trade associations to obtain their advice in calculating risks and rate schedules and expects to have many more such conferences before arriving at actual fees.

He also has called upon such government agencies as the Corps of Army Engineers, Weather Bureau, Coast and Geodetic Survey, and Agriculture Department to provide data on wave action, erosion, rainfall and other "exposure" factors which must be considered in rate making.

"The trouble," Meistrall said, "is that both public and private sources gather information for a particular purpose and not necessarily suited to our use. Our problem will be to find a common denominator in all the statistics we are gathering which will enable us to prescribe rates which will be sound, yet reasonable, for all classes of flood risk."

Rough Making Rates
Right now, Meistrall conceded, the hurdles to be cleared in establishing insurance rates and working out the even more difficult loan contract machinery appear to be almost insurmountable.

"I am being compared," he said ruefully, "with the Dutch boy who held his finger in the hole in the dike. I just hope the hole in this particular flood protective wall can be quickly and adequately plugged."

Meistrall said he has visited the flood damaged areas of New England and other Atlantic coastal areas and is personally convinced that "some means must be provided as soon as possible to help people help themselves."

Will Make Real Try
"The loss of life from natural disasters is something we can never pay for," he said, "but at least we can try to do something to prevent the life accumulations of families from being wiped out without hope of replacement."

Candy Firm Fire Being Investigated

A fire of apparent incendiary origin damaged a section of a small building at the rear of the property of Altamari's Candy Mfg., 15 Gill street Sunday morning, and firemen answered eight calls for grass and brush fires over the weekend.

Deputy Fire Chief Harold A. Sanford said the Gill street fire appeared to have been started by someone who tossed or directly applied matches to an open section, and Fire Chief James M. Brett said a police investigation has been requested.

Units from Central and Cornell stations, Union and Cordts hose companies and the Wicks salvage truck answered a call at 8:50 a. m.

Ceiling, Roof Damaged

Deputy Chief Sanford said the fire spread along paper baten covering insulation over an area about six feet wide and 20 to 25 feet long damaging a section of ceiling and roof. Firemen were able to check the blaze with chemicals, a booster line and a small hose line with little, if any damage to candy stored in the structure. The fire apparently originated in an area used for ventilation.

G-E Official to Give Rutgers Scholarships

Willard H. Sahloff, of Bridgeport, Conn., formerly of this city, a vice president of General Electric Company, has established two $600-a-year scholarships at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., it was announced today by Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, university president.

Mr. Sahloff is a trustee and 1930 graduate of the university. The first of the scholarships will become effective in the fall of 1957 and will be known as the DUSO High Schools Scholarship, W. H. Sahloff. It will be available to graduates of high schools in Dutchess, Ulster, Sullivan and Orange counties.

The second scholarship will be activated in the fall of 1958 and will be known as the Connecticut State Scholarship, W. H. Sahloff. Graduates of any Connecticut secondary school will be eligible for this award.

Basis for Scholarships
Both scholarships will be awarded on the basis of financial need, leadership qualities and contributions to the applicant's secondary school through participation in athletics and other extra-curricular activities.

"The scholarships established through Mr. Sahloff's generosity are particularly fine additions to a growing list of 'name' awards at Rutgers," Dr. Jones pointed out. "Outstanding young men from New York and Connecticut will be given an opportunity to go to college because of these awards."

A campus leader while an undergraduate, Mr. Sahloff was a member of Student Council and also Cap & Skull, Senior honorary society. His first job after graduation was as classifies adviser. Evening News. He left there in 1934 to enter the merchandising field with L. Bamberger & Company, Newark, N. J.

Joined G-E in '50

In 1940, he became associated with Montgomery Ward and was merchandising vice president of that mail order firm when he left it in 1949 to become president of NESCO. He joined General Electric in 1950 as general manager of the Radio and Television Department in Syracuse and moved to Bridgeport as general manager of the Small Appliance Division in April of 1953. He was named a vice president of General Electric the following year.

Mr. Sahloff was elected for a five-year term as an alumni trustee of Rutgers in June of this year.

Alligerville Hunter Shot As His Companion Trips

The second hunting accident within 24 hours occurred Saturday afternoon on Granite road between Kerhonkson and Accord, resulting in the hospitalization of Myron F. Avery, 26, of Alligerville, with a rifle wound in the calf of his right leg.

Mr. Avery was reported in good condition today at Kings-ton Hospital. Before being brought to the local hospital he was treated by Dr. Alfred Feldshuh of Kerhonkson.

Ellenville state police said the accident occurred about 12:45 p. m. as Mr. Avery and a companion, David E. Salmi, 29, of Kerhonkson, were returning to their car parked on Granite road.

They reported that Mr. Salmi, carrying a .22 caliber Winchester rifle, tripped and fell. The rifle discharged, striking Mr. Avery in the leg.

The two men were reportedly hunting for squirrels. This was the second hunting accident in that area within 24 hours, James Krom, 18, of Samsonville, having died late Friday night of abdominal wounds suffered that afternoon when his .410 gauge shotgun accidentally discharged.

Young Krom had just loaded the gun and was reaching to put on the safety when it slipped out of his hands, according to Ellenville state police. The butt of the gun struck the ground and it discharged, a load of No. 6 shot entering Krom's stomach on the left side.

Burger Shoots Deer Near Store

A buck deer which injured itself in a wild run through an uptown area was shot by Officer Gurnsey Burger Jr., Saturday afternoon.

Police headquarters had received several calls around 2 p. m., Saturday from persons who reported the deer on the run and one noted that he was at the rear of the Woolworth store, on Crown street. Officer Burger was dispatched there and reported shooting the deer after noticing that it was bleeding from the mouth and legs. The injuries were apparently suffered when the animal jumped a fence, and it had also jumped on a car, the report said. It was taken to be dressed and placed in the locker of the Children's Home. Its estimated dressed weight was 130 pounds.

Not Partisan Question, Governor Stresses

Harriman Asks State Voters Back $500-Million Bond Issue on Roads

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman asked New York state voters today to approve the 500-million-dollar highway bond issue on the Nov. 6 election ballot "in order that we can get on with highway building at a rate necessary to meet our accumulated needs."

Harriman made the plea in a speech prepared for a luncheon sponsored by the Utica Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Utica. The governor said the highway bond issue is "not a partisan question," and added: "The leaders and members of both parties in the Legislature have approved it and are supporting it now. There is no difference of opinion as to the urgent need for this money."

Reviews Situation

Reviewing the situation, Harriman said in part:

"In 1954, the temporary Highway Finance Planning Commission, or Diefendorf Commission, reported that 8,000 miles of our state highway system—more than half the total mileage—was in less than tolerable condition. "One of the most important objectives of my administration has been to do something about these 'intolerable' roads. I am glad to report we will be letting this year 200 million dollars worth of contracts for toll-free highways—which is almost double that of any other year on record. These figures, of course, include federal aid."

Recommendation Cited

"But even this is not enough. The Diefendorf Commission has recommended that we reach and sustain a level of 300 to 350 million dollars a year over a 13-year period. . . .

Saying he had heard it suggested that the additional federal aid voted by Congress this year makes the state bond issue unnecessary, Harriman declared "this is absolutely not the case."

Less Than 10 Per Cent

"But this amounts to less than 10 per cent of the total mileage of our state highways, and includes roads that are already up to standard, like the thruway. We must continue to match on a 50-50 basis federal aid for state highways not on the interstate system. In order to take advantage of the federal aid that is available, we will have to spend more money from state funds than in any previous year."

Harriman said that in Oneida county, of which Utica is the county seat, contractors already let in 1955 and 1956 totaled $8-

615,000—over 80 per cent more than the $4,705,000 total in the entire last two years of the preceding administration.

Funds Required

"It is essential to go ahead with state roads in the Utica area, including Route 12," the governor added, "and since Route 12 is not on the interstate system, it is important that we have adequate state funds for its development."

Harriman noted that one of the projects let during his administration was for construction of five miles of four-lane highway on Route 12 north of Utica, and another was for a portion of the north-south arterial highway within the city. These two projects totaled nearly seven million dollars. Another project on Route 12, south of Waterville, will cost $963,000.

Won't Neglect R-12

"On our present construction schedule are projects for improvement of over 25 miles of this route," Harriman said. "You can be sure that there will be no neglect of Route 12 in the programming of the public works department if the bond funds become available."

Two of the projects in this schedule for Route 12 were identified by Harriman as Booneville-Port Leyden, at an estimated cost of $700,000, and Chenango Falls-Oxford, at a cost of $3,840,000.

$20,000 Salary?

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—An educator predicts teachers salaries of $20,000 a year by 1966. President Evan R. Collins of the State College for Teachers at Albany said yesterday some school districts would be paying that wage before a current shortage of teachers was ended. He spoke at the opening of the 24th annual convention of the New York State School Boards Assn.

Jap Maneuvers

Tokyo, Oct. 22 (AP)—Warships and aircraft of Japan's sea self-defense force today opened the biggest sea maneuvers since the postwar fleet was created. About 12,000 men, 150 warships and 20 planes are taking part in the 15-day war games. American submarine, and planer are participating.

25 New Houses Planned Saccaman Buys 5 Acres at Wiltwyck

A five-acre tract of land, a portion of the former Wiltwyck Golf Club property bordering Lucas avenue, has been purchased by Joseph F. Saccaman, local real estate and insurance broker. Saccaman plans to develop the property and erect 25 houses on the tract. Three homes are already under construction.

The property was purchased from Robert Pardee and includes a portion of the former golf course which bordered on Lucas avenue just beyond the Kingston city line, at Spring Lake.

Ranch-Type Houses

Saccaman has laid out two streets in the development which will be known as the Spring Lake development. Edward Sache of Copake, is the general contractor, and Harry Burger is the mason. The two streets are being built by Schoonmaker and Becker.

Homes to be erected will be of the ranch type with three bedrooms and one or two baths.

Considers Incomes

Saccaman, who has been associated with the real estate business in Kingston for many years, will erect moderately priced homes. After a study of the local conditions and needs, he intends to meet the price range of local incomes, he said. All homes will be built in conformity with VA requirements, he said.

The property was purchased by Saccaman, who is making the initial development plans but he intends later to form a company which will take over the planning and development of the area. Saccaman has been managing broker for the Barclay Heights development and also associated with several other recent developments in the area.

Retrial Set Nov. 12 In Boxer's Slaying

Goshen, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—Retrial of two New York city men for the slaying of Al Frias, ex-pugilist from Fall River, Mass., was set today for Nov. 12 by Orange County Judge Raphael Egan.

George Ruocco and Joseph Marsala, both 26, are charged with first degree murder in the death of Frias. His body was found on a road near Tuxedo in April, 1955.

The two defendants were tried last July at Newburgh but the jury was unable to agree on a verdict.

Ice House Burns At Lake Katrine

A fire in an old abandoned ice house on the Leggs Mill road near the bridge of that name over Esopus creek partly destroyed the roofless structure early Sunday afternoon.

Chief Harry Lowe of Ulster Hose No. 5, which responded, said the fire in the ice house probably caught from burning brush and leaves.

The brush fire, which reportedly threatened a nearby cottage, was also extinguished.

The ice house, operated some 20 years ago as Brink's Ice House, is approximately 20 feet by 30. The sides were still standing.

Ulster Hose responded at 1:10 p. m. with its "brush rabbit," a 1½-ton truck designed to travel over rough ground.

The company returned to its station at the 9W bypass at 2:15 p. m.

Mishap Occurs in Dismantling Cars

Explosion of Tank in Junk Yard Is Fatal to Kenneth Whittaker, 23

Kenneth Whittaker, 23, son of Mrs. Georgia K. Whittaker and the late Howard D. Whittaker of 258 First avenue, died at Albany Hospital Saturday from burns which he received when a gas tank exploded at Acra, Greene county, Saturday.

Whittaker had gone to Acra to cut up cars at a junk yard and while engaged in this work the gas tank exploded. He was thrown 20 to 30 feet in the air by the force of the explosion and suffered third degree burns.

State Police at Catskill were notified and Whittaker was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital and later to Albany Hospital where he died Saturday night about 9:30 o'clock.

Coroner Gregory Mealon of Albany county made an investigation and ordered an autopsy. Whittaker had previously been employed by the New York Central Railroad.

Besides his mother Georgia Katherine Whittaker of this city, he is survived by six brothers, Howard Jr., Frank, George, Ralph, Silas and James Whittaker all of Kingston; eight sisters, Mrs. Margaret Mergendahl, Mrs. Pauline Dixon, Mrs. Fern Fortin, Mrs. Anna Weaver of Kingston, Mrs. Stella Cantwell of Kansas, Johanna, Katherine and Theresa Whittaker of Kingston. His grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Ellsworth of Kingston also survives. He was a member of Holy Cross Church.

Funeral will be held from the late residence, 258 First avenue, Wednesday morning at 9:30 o'clock and from Holy Cross Church at 10:30 o'clock where a mass of requiem will be offered. Burial in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

State Weather Forecast Given for Rest of Week

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—The extended weather forecasts for New York state, prepared by the U. S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7:30 p. m. today to 7:30 p. m. Saturday:

Eastern New York—Temperatures the next 5 days, Monday evening through Saturday, will average about 2 to 5 degrees above normal. Somewhat cooler Wednesday, otherwise no major change. Rainfall will average around ¼ inch, occurring at the beginning of the period and possibly again near the weekend.

Western New York—Mild Indian summer weather should continue with temperatures averaging about 6 or 7 degrees above normal. Mild with a few scattered light showers Tuesday, fair, not as mild Wednesday and Thursday. Increasing cloudiness and warmer Friday, showers followed by cooler Saturday. Total precipitation about ¼ to ½ inch.

Temperature normals—Normal highest daytime temperatures for upstate New York at this time of year range in the mid and upper 50s. Overnight lows range in mid and upper 30s.

Revolt Is Real Blow To Soviet Yugoslavia Gives Poles Courage

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—A reappraisal of United State policy toward Communist Poland is in the making. The chances appear good that Poland's new, independent Red leadership can obtain American economic aid if it wishes—and if it survives.

Secretary of State Dulles told a nationwide (CBS) television audience last night—after conferring with President Eisenhower—that anything which weakens the "great structure" of Soviet Communist power "leads to its breaking up" is in the interest of the United States.

U. S. Aided Slavs

His words on this and other aspects of the sensational revolt in Warsaw against Soviet domination left little doubt that he sees the prospect of an independent Poland as comparable to the situation of Yugoslavia after its break with the Kremlin in 1948. Yugoslavia obtained help from the United States, Britain and France in order to withstand heavy Soviet pressures.

Even before Dulles spoke out, the White House suggested in response to questions that the help given President Tito of Yugoslavia had encouraged the Polish revolt against Soviet dictation. Eisenhower ruled a week ago that Tito should continue.

Encourages Satellites

"I certainly think," Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen, "that the President's insistence on continued aid to Yugoslavia reflects itself in the Polish situation and in other unrest in other satellite nations."

The Polish crisis reached a climax last night when the Communist party Central Committee at Warsaw drove the Stalinists from its controlling politburo and restored Wladyslaw Gomulka, who was purged in the days of Joseph Stalin, to the powerful post of first secretary.

Vital Indication

Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, defense minister and symbol of Soviet power in Poland, was one who lost his seat. American officials had regarded what happened to Rokossovsky as a vital indication of the extent to which Gomulka would be willing to go in breaking with Moscow. His ouster is seen here as convincing evidence that Gomulka is in deadly earnest about winning for Poland freedom of action.

Dulles, under questioning by a TV panel of reporters, raised no objection to establishing friendly and cooperative relations with a Communist government so long as it is independent of Moscow. This country would like to see a western-type democracy in Poland and many other nations, he said, "but this is a system which can only be spread throughout the world gradually."

Other Main Points

He made these other main points in his interview: 1. He considered it unlikely that the Soviets would use "mass military means" to crush the Warsaw political rebellion; a "blood-bath" was improbable. Although other "repressive measures" may be used. But even if the Russians did throw their military power into action it would not succeed in putting down the drive to freedom because that has too great a popular base.

2. Should the Russians fight in Poland, he did not think "we would send our own armed forces" to oppose them. That would "precipitate World War 3—the last thing the Polish people want because he said it would wipe them out."

3. The "peril" of getting into a great war is less than it once was. With the western world united for defense, such a conflict "could not be productively undertaken" by the Soviet Union.

4. It is unlikely that the Polish issue will go to the United Nations, at least as a threat to international peace. It might be taken before the UN on the ground that Russia has interfered in Poland's internal affairs. But Dulles showed no interest in getting the issue into the UN itself.

5. The Soviet Communist high command is in an "obviously serious dilemma" all over eastern Europe. With the death of Stalin, it undertook to remove some of the Stalinist controls. In doing so, it has released aggression.

Memorial
In loving memory of our father, William H. Irwin who passed away October 22, 1955. You can only have one father Patient kind and true No other found in all the world.

Will be as kind and true For all his loving kindness He ask nothing in return If all the world deserts you To your father you can turn So all we can do, dear father Is to go and tend your grave And leave behind a token of love To the best father God ever gave.

Daughters,
MRS. JOSEPH ORR,
MRS. GILBERT GRAY,
HELEN, ANNA,
JANICE IRWIN.

Memorial
In memory of my husband William H. Irwin who passed away October 22, 1955.

When a husband breathes his last farewell The blow is more than tongue can tell Earth seems quite another place Without the smile of a husband's face Sleep on dear husband and take your rest For God has called when he knew best Deep in my heart you are with me yet I loved you too dearly to ever forget.

from Jensen and Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs street, and at 9:30 at St. Mary's Church where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Francis X. Toner. The funeral was largely attended. The children's choir sang "Domine Jesu Christi" at the offertory and following the final blessing sang, "In Paradisum." During the bereavement large numbers of friends called at the chapel. Among those were the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Martin J. Drury, Father Toner and the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly who led those at the Holy Rosary Sunday evening. Many floral pieces and Mass cards were placed near the casket. Bearers were John Carter, James Redden, George Every, Thomas Leonard, Michael Fay and William Fay Jr. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery where Father Farrelly offered the final absolution.

Albert L. Short
Albert L. Short, 61, of 39 Van Deusen street, died in Albany VA Hospital Sunday. An auto electrician and mechanic, he was a member of Fair Street Reformed Church and Kingston Lodge No. 10, F & AM who will conduct services at the funeral home Tuesday at 7 p. m. A veteran of World War I, he was wounded at Chateau Thierry, France. The funeral will be held at the parlors of A. Carr and Son, 1 Pearl street Wednesday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery. He will be buried with military honors. The American Legion Post will conduct services at graveside. Surviving are his wife, the former Jennie Wheeler; a son, Albert R. Short of the U. S. Air Force, stationed at Stewart Field, Newburgh; three brothers, Harry of Greenfield, Mass.; Melvin of Cottrell and Alanson of Port Ewen; a sister, Miss Anna Short of Cottrell; also three grandchildren. Friends may call at the parlors Tuesday between 3 and 5 and 7 and 9 p. m.

Mrs. Margaret McNeilis
Mrs. Margaret Murray McNeilis, of 177 Main street, died this morning following a long illness. Mrs. McNeilis was born in Port Ewen and has resided in this city most of her life. She was the widow of the late Cornelius J. McNeilis and daughter of the late Thomas J. and Margaret Kenney Murray. She was a member of St. Joseph's Church and a charter member of the Catholic Daughters of America. Mrs. McNeilis also belonged to the Ladies Catholic Benevolent Association. Surviving are two sons, Thomas A. and Joseph A. McNeilis; four daughters, Mrs. Mary M. Loughran; Miss Estelle A. McNeilis; Mrs. Anna M. Hennessy and Mrs. Helen M. Glynn, all of Kingston; also three grandchildren and six great grandchildren. The funeral will be held Wednesday at 9 a. m. from her late residence; thence to St. Joseph's Church where at 9:30 a. m. a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery. Friends may call at the home from 7 to 9 o'clock and Tuesday from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m.

John J. Norton
The funeral of John J. Norton of 21 Abbey street was held Saturday at 9 o'clock from St. Daniel Halloran Funeral Home, 88 W. Chester street, thence to St. Mary's Church where at 9:30 o'clock a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Francis X. Toner. Responses to the Mass were sung by the children's choir under the direction of Theodore Riccobono, organist. At the conclusion of the Mass the choir sang the Star Spangled Banner in honor of the deceased World War I veteran. While Mr. Norton reposed at the funeral home a great many friends called to pay their last respects and to offer condolence to the bereaved family. The room was filled with the many floral tributes and there were many spiritual bouquets. Friday afternoon the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, Rt. VF called and said prayers for the dead. Friday evening members of St. Mary's Holy Name Society called and led by their spiritual director, Father Toner, recited the Rosary. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery where Father Toner gave the final blessing. Bearers were John A. Scully, John Whalen, Francis Noonan, John Vigna, Edwin J. Baker, Bernard Rourke, James Keith and Edmund Vinciguerra.

18 Million Earnings
Boston, Oct. 22 (AP)—Third quarter earnings of Aluminum Ltd. and Subsidiaries are estimated at 18 million dollars—35 per cent over the 1955 third quarter figure of $13,600,000—Nathaniel V. Davis, the company's president, said today. The forecast was included in a speech prepared for the Boston Society of Security Analysts. Davis attributed the gain to improving production factors in the second half of 1956, combined with strong demand and higher world prices for aluminum this year than last. Aluminum Ltd.'s headquarters are in Montreal.

Economy Works Healthy
New York, Oct. 22 (AP)—Harlow Curtice, president of General Motors Corp., said today the "high level of economic activity and prosperity which Western Europe is experiencing appears to be on a sound and expanding basis." He said continued expansion of the Western European economy seems likely "but at a somewhat slower pace." Curtice returned today on the liner United States after a four-week business trip through Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and Switzerland. The National Safety Council estimates that the annual financial loss to the nation from farm accidents averages about $275 per farm family.

Financial and Commercial
New York, Oct. 22 (AP)—The stock market was mixed and trading was slow early this afternoon. Key stocks moved up or down within the range of a point or so. Wall street, after assessing the weekend events in Poland, seemed to be taking them in stride. Brokers saw no immediate effect on the American economy but cautiously waited further developments. Leading rails were fairly steady after their rise of Friday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 10 cents to $179.80 with the industrials up 30 cents, the rails up 10 cents and the utilities unchanged.

On the American Stock Exchange
The trend was higher. Corporate bonds were higher in quiet trading. U. S. government bonds edged off in quiet dealings.

Tonight and Wednesday night the Rev. Dr. Phillip Walters of Washington Square Methodist Church, New York city will be the guest speaker at meetings to be held at the church house at 7:30 p. m.

Tuesday at 8 p. m. Dr. Walters will speak at the meeting of the WSCS. He will also assist with the visitation teams. The public is invited.

Girl Scout Anniversary Features Local Girls

Port Ewen, Oct. 22—Port Ewen Girl Scouts participated in the 25th anniversary observance of Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts held Thursday at George Washington School, Kingston.

The adult Scout anniversary march was under the direction of Miss Margaret Costello and Miss Ella Jones, leaders of Port Ewen Troop. Five Girl Scouts of senior Troop 23 participated in the flag ceremony. Darlene Walker carried the Flag with Darlene Light and Gay Galbreath as color guards. The senior flag was carried by Rose Piccolo and Anne Darling carried the intermediate flag.

The anniversary pageant entitled, "We Make a Promise," was narrated by Edward R. Eckert, supervisor of town of Esopus. Gladys Tomshaw, a former Port Ewen girl represented the intermediate Girl Scouts in the pageant.

Awards presented to adult Scout leaders from Port Ewen were as follows: 15 year pins, Mrs. Floyd Light, Mrs. Alan Mickel and Mrs. Donald Timine; 5 year pins, Mr. Joseph Reis, Mrs. William McCabe, Miss Jones, Mrs. Joseph Fabysack, Mrs. John Donnelly, Mrs. Henry Deane Jr. and Miss Emily Card.

More Hearing Room

New York, Oct. 22 (AP)—Larger quarters have been obtained for the public hearing on St. Lawrence river power contracts scheduled here for Nov. 15. The State Power Authority announced yesterday that the hearing will be held in the auditorium of the Metropolitan Museum of Art instead of in the hearing room of the authority's headquarters on lower Broadway.

Robert Moses, chairman of the authority, said the change was "made necessary by the wide interest shown in the proposed contracts."

Rare Circuit

Wallingford, Conn. (AP)—The prosecution of Harvey C. Anderson on a speeding charge wasn't pressed in town court when the policeman, who arrested him, agreed that the electrically operated timing device he'd used to clock Anderson at 45 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone may have been short-circuited.

High Tribute

Monticello, Ark., Oct. 22 (AP)—An instructor at Arkansas A & M College was checking the roll. One girl was absent and he asked the class if anyone knew anything about her. A boy answered, "she's a sweet girl."

Hits Fund Raisers

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—Dr. Lester L. Coleman, author of "Freedom From Fear," says medical statistics are exploited by fund raisers. He told the annual banquet of the Syracuse University School of nursing last night that "propaganda organizations" used the statistics "under the guise of medical education." Coleman said the goal of the organizations was "to compel us to give money . . . to obtain freedom from a particular disease."

Saugerties Starts Yule Lights Fund Raising Campaign

A fund raising campaign for the initial cost of locally operated Christmas lighting for the village of Saugerties will get underway this week, according to Thomas W. Reynolds, president of Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce.

The project costing approximately $4,100 will be a "one shot deal" to pay for permanent cables, strings of lights, centerpieces and garland which will remain as the property of the community, Mr. Reynolds said.

Maintenance Cost $300
If the initial cost of the Christmas lighting equipment can be raised this year, it has been estimated that the cost of replacing parts, adding new sections and hanging of the lights will total less than $300 per year.

According to Mr. Reynolds, the important consideration at this time is to donate generously keeping in mind that a larger donation than in previous years is necessary in order to raise the cost of purchasing the permanent equipment.

At the meeting of the Chamber last week Mr. Reynolds reported that the permanent cables and timing devices have been installed by Salvatore Provenzano, electrical contractor of Mt. Marion. Wiring, bulbs and special ornaments are now needed to complete the project before the last week in November when Christmas lights are usually displayed.

Chamber Spent $1,200

The Chamber has expended all of its special fund, approximately $1,200 as partial payment for the work contracted by Mr. Provenzano. The balance of about $2,900 must be raised by a canvass of the community and area businessmen.

The fund raising campaign outlined at the meeting would include the mailing of letters of solicitation; personal calls on those who fail to respond and coin containers placed in area businesses.

The installation completed by Mr. Provenzano cost $2,700. Approximately $1,400 will be required to purchase wire, bulbs, garland and center-pieces for 16 strings across the main business streets in the village.

Herbert Lachmann, chairman of the Christmas Lighting Committee has worked nearly a year on the program.

Raised $2,000 Annually
President Reynolds pointed out that in previous years the Chamber was required to raise about $2,000 to pay for rental of the Yule lights for the business district. This year area businessmen and interested individuals will be asked to increase their donations to pay for the initial cost of the community project.

In future years the lights will be the property of the community and only a small amount will have to be raised each year to cover maintenance costs, he said. In view of the small amount required, it may be possible for the Chamber to absorb the costs of annual installation and maintenance, he said.

Five Change Posts at IBM

Charles J. Daniels

Bernard J. Mizel

Edward G. DeTemple Jr.

Ruben A. Imm

Stewart C. Strickland

Five appointments have been announced by the Military Products Division of International Business Machines Corporation here.

They are:
Charles J. Daniels, Poughkeepsie, to division manager of IBM methods.

Bernard J. Mizel, Hurley, to project manager of product engineering administrative services.

Edward G. DeTemple Jr., Kingston, to project manager of machine accounting and payroll.

Ruben A. Imm, Poughkeepsie, to product engineer in systems planning.

Stewart C. Strickland, Woodstock, to project manager of engineering-manufacturing training.

Mr. Daniels, who has been with IBM since April 1942, began his career with the company as a clerk in the Poughkeepsie plant. He was transferred to Albany in 1946 as a sales representative and later held that post in Poughkeepsie.

Was Housing Head
In 1954 Mr. Daniels became the manager of the Elmira office, and he was named housing administrator at the Kingston plant in October 1955.

Mr. Daniels, a graduate of Poughkeepsie High School, received a bachelor of science degree in business administration from Fordham University. He served with the marines for three and a half years.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniels and their children, Scott, 12, and Kathryn, 10, live at 58 Fountain Place, Poughkeepsie, where Mr. Daniels is a member of the Dutchess Golf and Country Club.

Mr. Mizel is a graduate of Kingston High School. He received a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from Lehigh University and served with the U. S. Navy Reserve from 1944 to 1946.

Joined as Designer
Mr. Mizel joined IBM at Poughkeepsie as a design engineer in product engineering in 1948. He was promoted to technical engineer there in 1951 and became a technical assistant in 1953.

In 1954, Mr. Mizel joined project high in Poughkeepsie and was made manager of product engineering administrative services. Promoted to assistant to the manager of product engineering, he was transferred to Kingston in February 1955.

He is a member of the Kingston chapter of the Free and Accepted Masons. Mr. Mizel and his wife Isabella reside with their two daughters, Susan, 7, and Marion, 2, and son John, 2, on Mountain View avenue, Hurley.

Started at Endicott
Mr. DeTemple joined IBM in May 1942, as personnel clerk at Endicott. He worked as a clerk in the cashier department, an accounting machine operator in machine accounting and an accounting machine specialist there until December 1954.

Mr. DeTemple was transferred to Kingston as the department manager of machine accounting then. He and Mrs. DeTemple now live at 325 Lucas avenue, Kingston, with their children Edward G. III, 18, Audrey J., 14, and Frederic M., 9.

Mr. DeTemple, who is a graduate of Johnson City High School, attended New York State Teachers College at Albany and served with the army in the Pacific from 1945 to 1946.

He is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, National Machine Accountants Association, IBM Country Club, and Troop 12 Boy Scouts committee.

Mr. Imm, who joined the company in April 1953, as a technical engineer for project high, received bachelor and master of science degrees in electrical engineering from the University of Wisconsin.

Project Leader
While working with project high he became a project leader in product engineering systems planning in April 1955. He was transferred to Kingston in June of that year and in November was made a project engineer.

He is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Tau Beta Pi, the IBM Country Club and the IBM Study Club. Mr. Imm resides with his wife at 39 Lorraine Blvd., Poughkeepsie.

Mr. Strickland, a graduate of Elkton (Md.) High school, studied at Bliss Electrical School. He became an IBM customer engineering student in July 1939 and worked as a customer engineer in New York city in 1940 and 1941.

He was transferred to Wilmington, Del., in 1942, and following four years service with the air force, returned there in 1946. In 1952, Mr. Strickland was appointed a customer engineering instructor at Endicott and from 1953 to 1954 served as customer engineer in charge at the Wilmington, Del., office.

Mr. Strickland was a field supervisor there until 1955 when he joined the Military Products Division as a field engineering instructor student. He began teaching the first class of field engineering students in September of that year and was promoted to manager of the pre-field engineering program in April 1956.

Mr. Strickland, who is a member of the Woodstock Rotary Club, is married. He and Mrs. Strickland have four children, Frederick V., 13, Kathleen M., 11, Robert G., 10, and Charles L., 9.

Wizard of Mind Will Find Things At Jaycee Show

Highly developed, extra sensory perception is a hallmark of Dr. Franz Polgar who will present his two-hour "Fun With the Mind" show at the Kat Walton Field House on Saturday, Oct. 27, at 8:15 p. m.

He will perform for the benefit of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce Youth Welfare Fund.

The genial wizard of the mind has often defied anyone to hide any object so that he couldn't find it. He has never failed to find any hidden objects and once, in Hollywood, he located a check hidden under the upper plate of a man's denture.

This unerring ability is attributed by Dr. Polgar to what he calls "thought transference." He claims no magic power but does credit a highly developed extra sensory perception which, defined less technically, might be described as a sixth sense.

His program, in addition to telepathic stunts, also features uncanny memory routines, an hilarious demonstration of split-second hypnosis and other mystifying phenomena of the mind.

Abraham Lincoln was a man who changed parties. He was first a Whig, later became Republican.

NO SUBSTITUTE FOR THE STUMP

One of the striking developments of the 1956 presidential campaign is the evidence that television is not, after all, the key to political planning.

Short of money, the Democrats have not been able to rely heavily on presentations by Adlai Stevenson. Yet there is no clear sign this has been a handicap to his cause.

He has whipped back and forth across the country in an endless round of speech-making and personal appearances which most of his advisers seem to feel are more effective than anything else he could do.

Originally, President Eisenhower planned to limit his campaign to a series of TV appearances, mostly delivered from the quiet of the White House studio. But only his opening speech was so handled. Since then he has hit the open road with a vengeance.

Electronics may be great, but the indications are that people still like to see their presidential candidates in the flesh.

The political stump is not yet the old-fashioned item that some would make it.

And television seems more a supplement than the real heart of campaigning.

TRIBUTE RICHLY EARNED

Again we must pay tribute to men who have engineered a thrilling rescue at sea. The crew of the crippled Pan American World Airways plane inbound from Hawaii, and the men aboard the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Pontchartrain, behaved according to the highest traditions of the air and sea services.

Pilot Richard Ogg of the Pan American plane was compelled to ditch his big Strato-cruiser 1,000 miles west of San Francisco because two of its four engines failed soon after it passed the point of no return.

To meet the emergency he alerted the Pontchartrain, a floating weather station, and then kept the plane aloft for five hours so he could have daybreak as an aid to the ditching and rescue operations.

He pancaked the plane into the rolling sea beside the cutter. Within 21 minutes all 31 persons aboard the aircraft had been safely transferred to the vessel. It was a remarkable feat, made possible not least by the fact that at no time did the passengers evidence panic.

Though they all knew they were in extreme peril, rescued and rescuers alike deserve our plaudits.

Until color TV becomes more widespread it will not matter too much if candidates blush when they make those lavish promises coast to coast.

EXPERIMENT IN SCHOOLS

An experimental school of steel that may save cities, counties and school districts a lot of money is now being built in Gary, Ind.

At first glance this may not sound too exciting, but it could prove to be a highly important development for the future of education in this country.

All politics and proposals aside, the real key to today's pressing shortage of school room space is the high cost of construction.

That's why educators are keeping an interested eye on this economy project. The six-room, one-story Hosford Park Grade School will cost about $50,000 less than a brick building of the same size, according to the trustee of the local township financing the school.

Further, its builders say that the steel structure is faster to put up, cuts down on maintenance and assures more safety from fires.

If this undertaking proves to be one half as good as it sounds, it should be welcome news to all parents. And it deserves the close attention of those who are sincerely interested in finding a real solution to the problem of crowded classrooms.

A champion hen, tested in Connecticut, laid 342 eggs during a test period. Such productivity leaves some chicken raisers shell shocked.

THE POOR REGISTRATION

Where there is no system of permanent registration, the citizens seem, in spite of the efforts of politicians, the Advertising Council and other agencies, not to have done the best they might have. The registration is down.

Politicians try to explain the small registration as being bad for the other fellow. However, it is the United States that suffers because it can mean one of two things:

A. The people have lost their enthusiasm for the electoral process; or
B. The people are apathetic toward the candidates.

No people can move too far from their traditions without confusion and chaos. The United States politically is a two-party country, parties which differ in principle and which contend over issues. Bipartisanship is not American historically and therefore runs counter to the character of the people. When there is no dispute, there is no interest and no enthusiasm.

It is for this reason that the party platform developed and the Resolutions Committee remains the most important committee at each convention meeting over many days, listening to debates and representations. After the platform is passed by the convention, it is supposed to be binding upon the party and its candidates. But it is not binding upon anyone and is soon forgotten. Nevertheless, it is the basis for debate during the campaign and what the American people want is a debate. There has not been a debate on the foreign policy of the United States since 1932 and many voters are wondering why and many more feel that no matter which party is in office, the same faces are seen and the same names are heard and the same policies are pursued.

There is more dissatisfaction in the land than the leadership of either party is prepared to admit. But the dissatisfaction is not a partisan attitude; it is not over issues. It is perhaps due to more than 20 years of excitement and then a calm. The very peace and prosperity which are both the Eisenhower boast and promise are calming, quieting attitudes after the New Deal and War and the Fair Deal and Give 'em Hell. Stevenson is attempting to reawaken popular excitement with his H-bomb testing campaign but this is a lemon handed him by some adviser who never thought it out. Stevenson is now back to the 1946 Baruch-Acheson-Lilienthal plans.

In 1952, it was different. Eisenhower headed a crusade and many who had been with Roosevelt but had spurned Truman or had been spurned by him turned toward Eisenhower with an unparalleled enthusiasm. Curiously, even the Taft Republicans, led by Bob himself, went out to work for Ike. In 1956, it is quiet, not because there is disappointment with Eisenhower or no confidence in Stevenson, but because there is no fight over anything.

In desperation for an idea, the Democrats are reviving the smear on Nixon, which will do no better today than it did a month ago. The Republicans have come up with nothing more startling than "I like Ike." So, you do. So do most people. But what about an argument, a little controversy, a battle over the tariff, or the debt, or taxes, or even Suez?

We are not alone in this moment of weakness. I listened to a little bit of a speech made by Sir Anthony Eden and how I wished that I might have been his ghost-writer. For Eden has a claim on the sympathy of the world. He risked his career because he had opposed Mussolini; he resigned his Cabinet post because he had opposed appeasing Hitler when it was fashionable to appease Mussolini and Hitler. Did he remind the world that he was right when most people were wrong? Not he. He let the electric moment pass.

I cite this because most of the political speeches this year are not inspired documents. There is a dullness in the world—it is here; it seems to be everywhere except in Cairo where the new dictator flaunts his power and his new allies to the world.

Are people tired? Is that what has happened? Were they too tired to register? Are they too tired to think of what is happening to their country and their civilization? Have we become a nation of television watchers who sit in darkened rooms and look at others do things while we do nothing? It could be.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

ALLERGY IN THE OLDER PATIENT

"Although allergic disease seems to be predominantly a disturbance of the young and middle-aged, this does not mean that allergy may not show itself for the first time in an old person nor that the various allergies may not continue to be active in the later years of life." I am quoting Drs. S. Slepian and J. Reicher in the medical magazine devoted to the diseases and processes of aging—Geriatrics.

Let us tell us that there are differences in the forms which allergy takes in the aged as compared with those in young people and that there are certain features of allergy in the aged which require the special interest of the physician trained in geriatric medicine. Such features are:

1. The seeming harmlessness of allergy in old people on the one hand and
2. The greater hazard to life of asthma starting after 40 years of age in others.

3. The difficulties in interpreting the skin tests used to find out what substances an aged person is allergic to and

4. The occasional onset of severe seasonal hay fever in an aged person despite the belief that hay fever does not start late in life.

It seems to be generally true that in individuals who have had allergies from early life, symptoms lessen in severity with age or, at times, disappear entirely. In other words we "grow out" of many such allergic symptoms. This may occur without any special treatment. Loss of symptoms may come about because special sensitivities tend to have limited duration and "wear out," so to speak, although it sometimes takes many years for this to happen. However, while sensitivity to some substances disappears, oversensitivity to others may develop. There is also the possibility that sensitivity may take a new form, that is, produce a new type of reaction. For example, a patient may stop having nose stuffiness or running from a certain food but may find the same food now produces hives or stomach and bowel symptoms. The reason for this is not yet clear.

The reliability of the various tests for sensitivity or allergy becomes less in the aged person. Even in young patients, skin tests for allergy are not always reliable and in the aged person, the dry skin reacts poorly to such tests. After the age of 50, only a few few positive skin reactions though in many cases there are other signs which show sensitivity to various foodstuffs. Also, the elderly person may react very severely to tests of substances within the skin and great care must be taken.

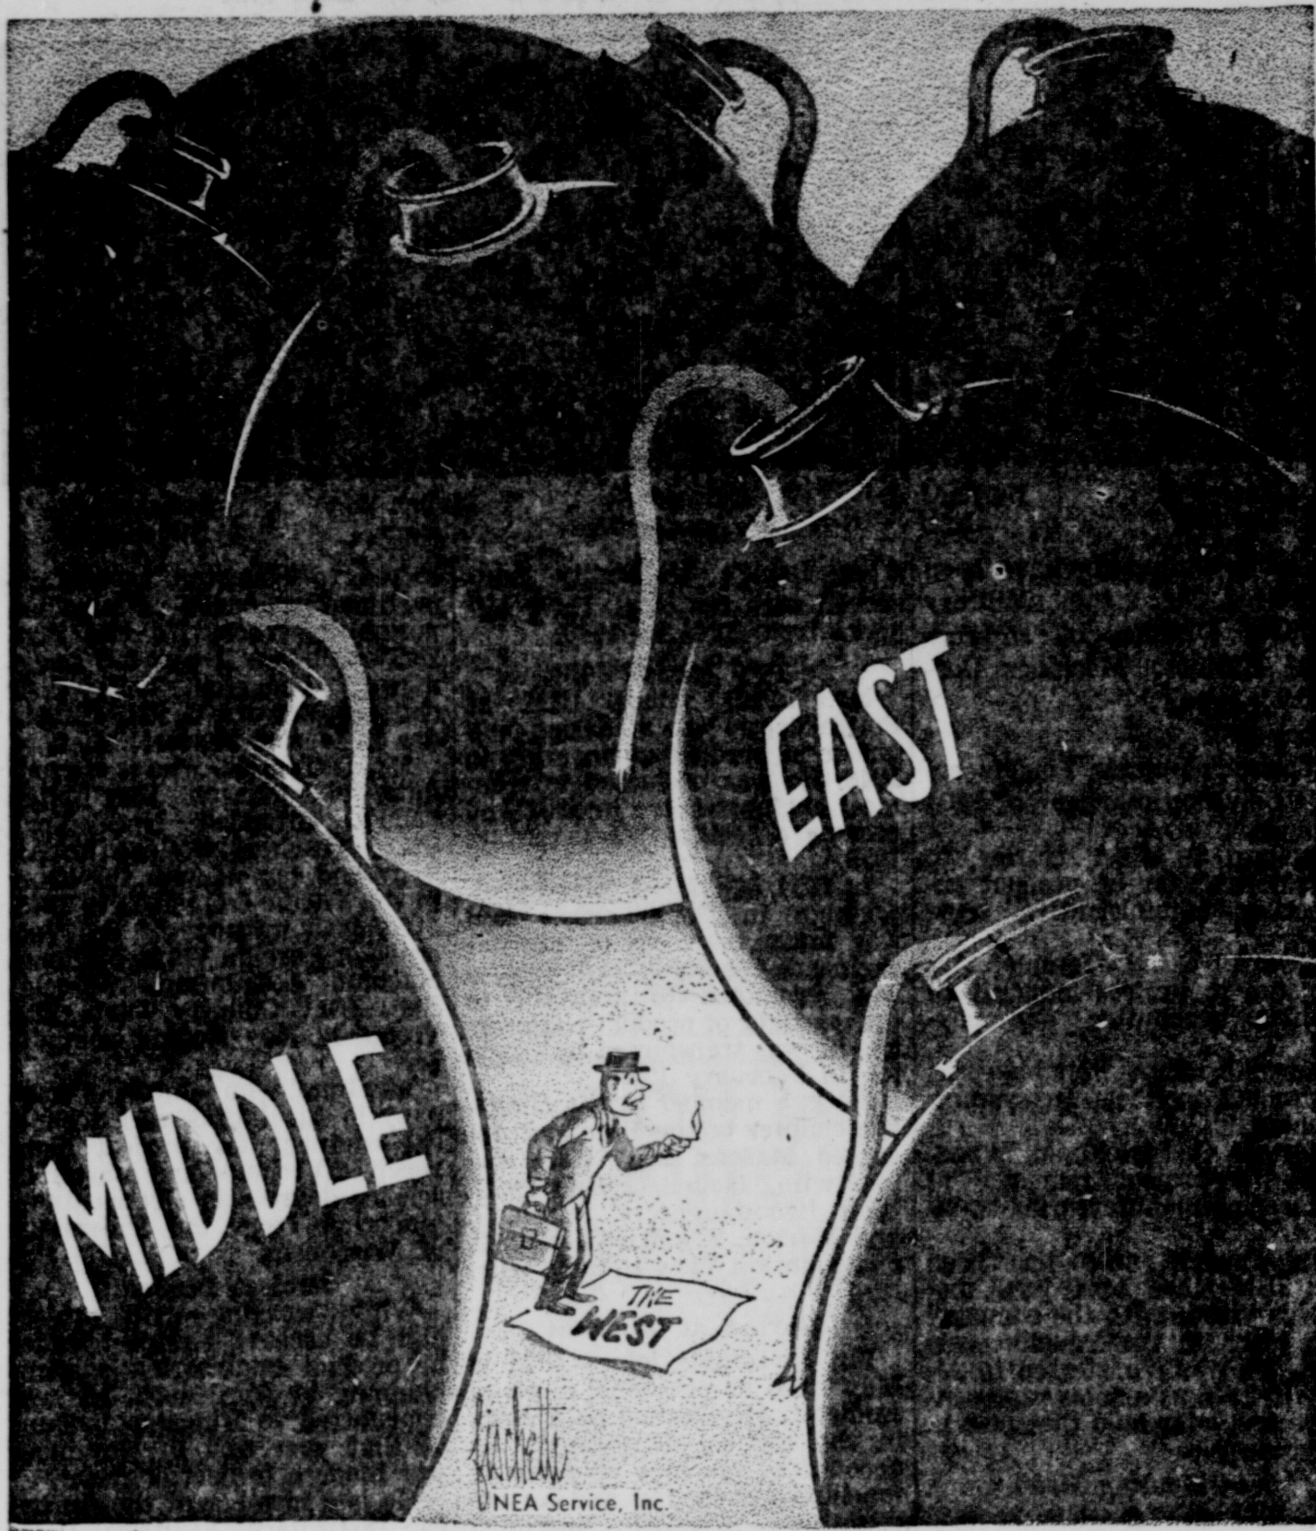

In the majority of cases in which it is claimed that allergy has started late in life, minor allergic symptoms may have been present but unrecognized in early life. For example, asthma may appear late in life in a patient who has had mild nasal (nose) symptoms for years. As asthma is the most important of the allergic diseases in old people, I would like to go into it in a little more detail in tomorrow's article.

'Now Let's See—Where Were We?'

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—President

Eisenhower will be re-elected for a second term—but the Democrats will win control of both the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives in the Nov. 6 election.

These are the opinions of a nearly two-thirds majority in a poll conducted by the writer among the 700 NEA Service client newspaper editors receiving this column in the United States.

The overwhelming opinion that the Democrats would retain control of Congress in spite of an Eisenhower victory was the most surprising trend revealed by the poll.

Four years ago, in a similar poll, a two-thirds majority of the editors correctly predicted the election of Eisenhower and a Republican-controlled House and Senate.

This year's reversal of form on the congressional outlook may point to a major factor of uncertainty on the 1956 results.

Twenty-eight per cent of the editors replying refused to hazard a guess on the congressional outcome. But of those who did make an estimate, 76 per cent think the Democrats will win the Senate. A whopping 89 per cent think the Democrats will win the House.

This opinion is strongest in the South and West. It is supported by little more than half the editors in the East, but by less than half of those in the Midwest.

THE CONGRESSIONAL race prediction is made in spite of the fact that editorial support being given President Eisenhower and Gov. Adlai Stevenson has changed by only five per cent from what it was four years ago.

This year 62 per cent of the editors say their papers are supporting Eisenhower. In 1952 it was 68 per cent. Stevenson's support is up two points, from 19 per cent in 1952 to 21 per cent this year.

Fourteen per cent of the editors say they are supporting neither candidate in this campaign. This is a two per cent increase over 1952. This neutrality comes principally from editors in cities having only one newspaper. They try to maintain political independence and give both parties equal treatment.

Editors changing their political support this year did so in several directions. Forty-seven per cent of those changing positions reported a switch from Eisenhower in 1952 to neutral in 1956. Twenty-six per cent reported switches to support Stevenson. Only one paper reported switching from Stevenson support in 1952 to support Ike in 1956.

TWENTY PER CENT of the papers changing positions this year have switched from the old parties to support T. Coleman Andrews and Thomas H. Werdel, the National States Rights Conference candidates for president and vice president.

When this poll closed for tabulation Oct. 10, four per cent of the editors reported their papers had not yet taken a position, but would do so before the election.

Editors replying to the poll are generally agreed that President Eisenhower will not win this time by as large an electoral vote as he won in 1952. His count then was 442 to 89 for Gov. Stevenson.

This time 47 per cent of the editors making an estimate say they think Ike will get between 300 and 400 electoral votes. This is the prevailing opinion. But 23 per cent think Ike will get over 400 and nine per cent think he will do even better than he did four years ago.

The popular opinion that the election will be close is not shared by many editors. Only seven per cent of the editors seem to think Ike will win with under 300 votes—less than a 35-vote margin over the 266 needed to win.

OF THE 19 PER CENT of the editors who think Stevenson will win, 15 per cent think it will be by a margin of 100 electoral votes over Eisenhower's total, or less. But three per cent think Stevenson will win by from 100 to 200 and one per cent think Stevenson will win by a landslide, reversing the Eisenhower sweep of four years ago.

The average margin of victory predicted by editors thinking Stevenson will win is 65 electoral votes—that is, 233 to 238.

Estimates on the popular vote are proportional to the electoral vote predictions. In 1952 Eisenhower got nearly 34 million to Stevenson's 27 million—a seven-million plurality. Only five per cent of the editors think he will do that well this year.

On the other side, estimates of the Stevenson plurality—if he wins—run from a bare half million to a whopping 10 million. Stevenson "partisans" average prediction is that his plurality will be a little under four million.

Bomb Ban on Soviet Pledge Called Risk to U. S. Safety

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 22—Is this the "New America" to be envisioned from the campaign speeches of Adlai Stevenson?

1. The United States announces it will halt H-bomb tests. The Soviets say they will do likewise.

2. America, in the meantime, doesn't dare "experiment" with H-bombs in any form for fear of being accused of bad faith. Research continues, but in the dark—the scientists cannot determine whether their experiments are of any value.

3. Soviet Russia, having no such fears and being able to conceal what is being done, continues her "experiments."

4. An explosion is reported from inside Russia. Scientists favorable to the Stevenson viewpoint say it wasn't an H-bomb. Other scientists dispute it. The debate goes on throughout a bewildered America.

5. The "cold war" grows acute and, after an interval of perhaps a couple of years—during which nobody knows which country really has atomic superiority—Moscow suddenly demands that American forces get out of Europe and that NATO be dissolved.

6. Shall the "New America" surrender to Soviet Russia under threat of destruction by weapons unknown?

Not "Gullible" in '52

The foregoing chain of events could not happen unless the United States had a naive gullible President.

The 1952 Stevenson was not gullible. He was a much more prudent and cautious American where the safety of the nation was involved than he appears to be in 1956. Here, for example, is what Mr. Stevenson said in a speech at Hartford, Conn., as reported in the newspapers of Sept. 18, 1952:

"The (atom) bomb is but one part of a general system of defense. It cannot be a substitute for such a general system. Until it is subjected to a safe international control, we have no choice but to insure our atomic superiority. . . .

International Control

"Because our government knew the futility of the arms race, it made its great decision to seek an international system for the control of atomic power. . . . I think this decision was right—profoundly right. . . .

Soviet Union has thus refused to join in a workable system. The reason is obvious. To be effective, such a system would require effective United Nations inspection, and the Kremlin fears to open up the windows and doors of its giant prison. . . .

"We must strive constantly to break the deadlock in our atomic discussions. But we can never yield on the objective of securing a fool proof system of international inspection and control. And we never confuse negotiation with appeasement."

Soviet Viewpoint

What has happened to Adlai Stevenson since? In April, 1956, when his preconvention campaign was well under way, he said in a public speech that America could stop H-bomb tests on her own and take a chance that Soviet Russia would do likewise. Soviet Foreign Minister Shepilov in a speech before the Communist parliament, as reported July 16, 1956, backed up Mr. Stevenson's proposals by saying:

"No elaborate system of control would be needed as technical levels at the present time are high enough to disclose any nuclear explosion."

Marshal Bulganin, Soviet Premier, on Sept. 11, 1956, in a letter to President Eisenhower, said:

"It is known that in itself the discontinuation of atomic and hydrogen weapon tests does not demand any international agreements on control, because the present state of science and engineering makes it possible to reveal any explosion of an atomic or hydrogen bomb wherever it has been carried out."

The Soviet Premier went on to say that this circumstance "makes it possible to separate the question of terminating atomic and hydrogen weapon tests from the general problem of disarmament."

Now the Soviet chief has come forward with another letter to President Eisenhower, dated Oct. 17, 1956—along the lines of the Stevenson proposal, offering an agreement to end H-bomb tests and saying that "there will be no particular difficulty in supervising" the matter because explosions can be detected anywhere. He adds that the Communist government is "entirely in agreement with the view which has been taken by certain prominent public figures in the United States lately about the necessity and possibility of an agreement on the banning of atomic tests."

Not Advocated

No responsible American officials in the executive branch of the government have advocated any such thing. If Adlai Stevenson is elected President of the United States, the Soviet government will find they have an American president who now is willing to risk the safety of his country on the word of the Communist regime.

The intrusion into an American political campaign by the head of a foreign government is unprecedented especially when the government concerned is a potential enemy whose aggressive behavior has compelled the United States in self-defense to spend $40,000,000,000 a year on armament and to maintain large projects for the development of nuclear weapons. President Eisenhower was certainly right in publicly denouncing the latest Bulganin maneuver as brazen interference in an American political campaign.

Will the American people on Nov. 6 really risk their safety with a candidate who is ready to stop development of nuclear weapons on the pledged word of the enemy and without the "fool proof system of international inspection and control" that he himself called for only four years ago? It seems incredible. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

Doggone Shame

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—Damon, an Australian shepherd dog, doesn't use his own special swinging door to enter and leave the home of Mrs. Lou Ella Archer anymore. Mrs. Archer had a lock put on the little hatch after a thief wriggled through it one night and made off with several hundred dollars worth of jewelry.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

It goes almost without saying that all the individuals who took part in the World Series were members of the cast of the television show, which is a commercial enterprise with the profit motive. This would include the umpires, the bullpen catchers and pitchers, the coaches and the bat-caddies. As matters stand now, these people are denied payment on a scale which might be fabulous under a system advocated by Eugene McDonald, of Chicago, the President of Zenith radio, which manufactures TV apparatus, and Robert E. Lee, a member of the Federal Communications Commission.

Mr. McDonald claims that the government has turned over to the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting System a practical monopoly of a public resource precious beyond calculation. NBC and CBS say this is nonsense and thus far they seem secure in their position, which gives them incidental power to control and limit debate on public issues and to broadcast propaganda subject to no effective debate on public issues and to broadcast propaganda subject to no effective regulation. It does not appear that Mr. McDonald's scheme could change this fundamental defect of means of communication which has been worse in the hands of central governments, however, than it has been thus far in the custody of private enterprise.

The system proposed is pay-as-you-see, or subscription TV, and there are a number of separate inventions all directed toward the exclusion of those who do not pay a quarter or 50 cents in some meter. The details are highly technical, but at bottom the idea is to broadcast a scramble which can be unscrambled only by TV sets which have paid the box-office fee through a slot or other such medium. Some informed skeptics insist that nobody has yet invented a scrambling device which cannot be cracked by a counter invention which would operate legally and frustrate the whole idea of excluding knothole spectators.

Mr. Lee did not advocate complete conversion of all TV to the "subscription" system. But he did say that the commission and Congress already have taken a roomful of expert testimony without finding anything in which the authorities have confidence. Therefore, the only thing to do is to give paid TV a trial and see whether the public is willing to pay, and moreover whether it can work.

Mr. McDonald's vision of pay-TV would cut the World Series performers in for stipulated percentage shares of the take at millions of meters. Theatres would pay in proportion to their gates.

College football players obviously would deserve the same and singers, actors and pop-jays of other particular feather might wallow in wealth beyond Hollywood's wildest hallucinations. The right of the individual performers to individual pay is not debatable, but the job of assessing, collecting and distributing the money would be the most complex work of the kind down to now. Thus far, soulless corporations such as ball clubs and colleges have assumed that this by-product was inherently theirs, but the performers have only to dispute that position to vacate it.

McDonald's opinion of the cultural TV efforts thus far is not a fluff. He says the standard seldom rises above stupidity and blames advertisers who buy third-rate vaudeville shows from typical theatrical booking agencies for shunning superior plays and music. For years serious orchestral music has been frustrated by the high cost of rehearsals. With a gate of millions to draw from, they might be able to rehearse to the region of perfection. At any rate, jugglers, dog-acts, Professor Oppenheimer and Elvis Presley could not be thrust at the whole public as the highest cultural fare if for a quarter or 50 cents there was the option of something at least genteel.

The vulgar side of my nature keeps ogling the sordid financial possibilities for football and football players. The maximum winners' shares in the world series payoff is petty by comparison to the take from a TV gate of thirty million sets, and not for just four games, either, because TV is outside the rules of organized ball and the division would have to be made on percentage all the way. And football monsters who now hang their fuzzy heads in childish remorse when they are caught accepting nickels under the table could drive to scrimmage in solid gold hot rods and hire noted savants for stand-ins in their academic chores. Bridge to the Tooth Bank

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP)—The transplanting of live, human teeth and their successful storage in "tooth banks" is the goal of a University of Michigan research team. Dr. James K. Avery, project director, said if the study is successful it could lead, in certain cases, to elimination of artificial bridges for lost teeth. "We know it is possible to transplant teeth in humans," he said. "It has been done successfully in selective cases of young adults by other members of our team. But there are still problems to be solved."

No Clear-cut Favorite Shows Up in Race for Senate Post

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—The U. S. Senate race between New York city's Mayor Robert F. Wagner and State Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits makes the oddsmakers run for cover.

There has been no clear-cut favorite from the outset, and there's likely to be none even on Nov. 6, when an estimated seven million New York state voters will line up at the polls.

Veteran observers of the New York state political scene seem to agree that the vote margin between the two contenders probably will be as slim as the difference between their political philosophies.

Wagner, the Democratic candidate, and Javits, the Republican nominee, are seeking the seat to be relinquished by retiring Sen. Herbert H. Lehman, a Democrat.

Political Balance

The political balance in New York rests between heavily Democratic New York city and the predominantly Republican counties outside the city. The vote Nov. 6 probably will be fairly evenly divided between the two political strongholds.

The 46-year-old Wagner, a bland and affable politician, has been a popular mayor and is counting on strong support from his admirers in the city.

He is the namesake son of the late U. S. senator who authored the Wagner Labor Relations Act and figures to pull a lot of labor votes.

He has been endorsed by organized labor. He has the nomination of the Liberal party, a potent group whose chief strength lies in New York city and the solid backing of the Democratic organization.

Javits, 52, a New York city lawyer and former congressman, is banking on heavy support from the traditionally Republican counties upstate and from the fast-growing suburban areas on Long Island and north of New York city.

Confident of Home Town

But he is confident also that he can give Wagner a run for his money in their mutual home town. The bald, dapper attorney general had Liberal party support in four successful campaigns for Congress in a heavily Democratic district in New York city.

Javits is a Jew, Wagner a Catholic.

Javits distinguished himself as a campaigner two years ago when he knocked off Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., in a race for attorney general. He was the only Republican on the state ticket to survive a Democratic uprising that put Averell Harriman in the governor's seat.

The victory earned Javits the Senate shot, although he almost lost out at the last moment when reports were circulated that he had sought Communist party support in his early congressional campaigns.

Javits went before a U. S. Senate subcommittee to deny them under oath.

Lacks Support of Some

After closed-door deliberations, the GOP state committee voted Javits the nomination. But, unlike Wagner, he does not have the wholehearted support of his party organization.

Many GOP leaders continue to look askance at Javits for the personal brand of political liberalism that he practices. While in Congress he compiled what some call a "maverick" voting record—siding against his party and with the Democrats on some key measures.

But Javits maintains he has found a political home in the Eisenhower philosophy of Republicanism. In his campaign, he has preached support of Eisenhower.

Many New York voters of liberal persuasion are going to be hard pressed come Election Day to decide between Liberal Democrat Wagner and Liberal Republican Javits.

Conservative voters, however, face a similar dilemma. Many feel they cannot give their blessing to either man.

Blocking of Bank Merger Praised

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—Rep. Multer (D-NY) today complimented George A. Mooney, New York State superintendent of banks, for blocking a proposed merger of two Buffalo banks.

Multer, a member of the House Banking Committee, as well as chairman of a House Small Business Subcommittee, expressed hope that Congress will write legislation requiring national banks to be bound by the same principles that Mooney set forth in regard to state banks.

Multer wrote Mooney that "it has been horrifying to note the big business and bank mergers swallowing up the small fellow and eliminating fair competition."

"It is fortunate that the Secretary of the United States Treasury and the United States Comptroller of the currency have not taken the same position with reference to big bank holding companies and big bank mergers as is evidenced by this decision of yours."

The Brooklyn congressman added that protests he and others made to the comptroller against big bank mergers "went entirely unheeded."

State Police Doubt Girl, 11, Abducted

Selkirk, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—State police say they doubt 11-year-old Claudia Greter's claim of being abducted at gunpoint.

She said she had been forced into a car Thursday afternoon. A widespread search ended when she appeared Friday night at a home in Mill Hollow, about 35 miles from this Albany county community.

Capt. Daniel F. Glasheen of the state police said Claudia became lost while on a walk, spent Thursday night in an empty house and obtained rides Friday by hitch-hiking.

Claudia was to have left Friday with her family for Japan to join her father, an air force colonel.

Slayer of Policeman Transferred to Attica

Dannemora, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)

James A. Call, convicted for the slaying of a Lake Placid policeman, has been transferred from Clinton State Prison here to Attica State Prison.

Clinton Prison said yesterday that the "routine" transfer had taken place three weeks ago.

Call, 31, and a former air force major, pleaded guilty in June, 1955, of second-degree murder in the shooting of Patrolman Richard Polkey in August, 1954. His sentence is 20 years to life.

At Dannemora State Hospital, it was reported yesterday that an inquest would be held into the death of Frank Flynn, 28, of New York city, who was injured fatally in an apparent escape attempt Thursday. He died yesterday.

District Attorney Thomas North of Clinton county said Flynn had jumped or fallen from midway on a 25-foot wall at the mental institution operated by the correction department.

Flynn was convicted in 1954 on a charge of attempted robbery.

Here! New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks!

Performance-proved in a history-making test on the ALCAN Highway to Alaska

The Alcan Highway is the road where trucks grow old before their time. The road where gravel endlessly sledgehammers the life out of trucks. Where a fog of superfine dust chokes engines, and vicious ruts subject chassis to months of wear in a few hundred miles.

Six new '57 Chevrolet trucks, representing light-, medium- and heavy-duty models and heavily loaded with cargo, roared north from Dawson Creek, B. C., through 1,520 miles of mountains and mire, rain and hail to Fairbanks, Alaska. Running around the clock, they made this tortuous trip—normally a 72-hour run—in less than 45 hours. The fleet made normal stops along the way, and maintained safe and legal speeds. As a special test during the run, two of the trucks went the entire distance without once having their engines stopped!

It's all down in the AAA record book. And more besides! Never before has a new truck been so thoroughly proved. Come in and see how well these new Alcan champs measure up to your job.

Alcan fleet gets up to 18.17 miles per gallon! That's the mileage reported by the Cameo Carrier, with Thriftmaster 6 and extra-cost Overdrive.

All the way in DRIVE range! This Powermatic-equipped 10000 Series tractor traveled the entire Alcan Highway in a single forward-speed range!

Suit Considered Test Concerning NAACP

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 22 (AP)—A suit considered a test of new South Carolina law prohibiting employment of members of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People by the state, cities and counties and school district opens in Federal Court here today.

The suit was brought by 18 Negroes in an attempt to regain their teaching jobs at the Elmore Training School.

The teachers' contracts were not renewed when they failed to fill out a questionnaire asking about NAACP membership and their feelings about segregation.

The 1956 law requires that teachers sign statements that they were not NAACP members and that they support segregated schools.

Twenty-four teachers lost their jobs at the school. All were replaced.

Following the filing of the suit, State Atty. Gen. T. C. Callison requested permission for the state to appear as a friend of the court because of the constitutionality question.

Judges John J. Parker, George Bell Timmerman and Ashton H. Williams are hearing the case.

SWEETIE PIE

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

We learned about Robert Fulton and the Clermont in school, but we never went too deep into the day by day aspects of what the Clermont meant to Hudson river travel.

Perhaps the folks who wrote our history books never saw our Hudson river. Certainly local students should be most informed about history which touches their own locality and is of importance such as Henry Hudson, Robert Fulton, Clermont.

It do not remember, being encouraged during school years to read or study or give book reports on local history. In this little book, "The Hudson" by Wallace Bruce published in 1907 which certainly should have found its way on the school shelf never came across my horizon 'til the other day. The maps alone are wonderful.

No doubt the author, Mr. Bruce, spent much time and research to find every available item of information on his subject. The following he extracted from the New York Evening Post of October 2, 1807: "Mr. Fulton's new-invented steamboat, the Clermont, which is fitted up in a neat style for passengers, and is intended to run from New York to Albany as a packet, left here this morning with 90 passengers, against a strong head wind. Notwithstanding which, it is judged that she moved through the waters at the rate of six miles an hour."

Then he also searched the Albany Gazette, and found this in the October 5, 1807 issue: "Friday, October 2, 1807, the steamboat (Clermont) left New York at ten o'clock a. m., against a stormy tide, very rough water, and a violent gale from the north. She made a headway beyond the most sanguine expectations, and without being rocked by waves."

She arrived at Albany, October 4, at 10 o'clock p. m., being detained by being obliged to come to anchor, owing to a gale and having one of her paddle wheels torn away by running foul of a sloop."

Then from the Poughkeepsie Eagle the following headline: "To Poughkeepsie from New York in seventeen hours." Also: "The first steamboat on the Hudson river passed Poughkeepsie, August 17, 1807," and in June 1808 the owners of the boat began to advertise in all the prominent papers along the river about The Steamboat, as it was then called.

They advised the public that the Clermont "will leave New York for Albany every Saturday afternoon at exactly 6 o'clock," that it will dock at Esopus at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. "She will leave Albany for New York every Wednesday morning exactly at 8 o'clock and pass Hudson, about 3 in the afternoon, Esopus, 8 in the evening, Poughkeepsie, 12 at night. Newburgh Thursday morning at 4, West Point, Thursday morning at 7." This was the beginning of steamboating on our Hudson yet I never saw the above schedule of the famous Clermont 'til just now, although the replica was in our Kingston Park Lagoon 'til it fell apart. Of course history, pictures and old newspapers will always keep it alive for generations to come and such authors as Wallace Bruce. He does not try to astound the readers with his information but gives it as he found it. Perhaps there will be a revival of interest next year as the 150th anniversary of Robert Fulton's Clermont approaches. Now with so many folks having motorboats they may have a gay old time around such a celebration, if someone starts the ball rolling.

15 Persons Die On Highways Over Weekend

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP) — Fifteen persons were killed in nine weekend highway accidents in New York state.

Four were killed in a two-car collision near Oneonta. A mother and two children lost their lives when their car was hit by a high-speed freight train at Whitney Point, Broome county.

Two teen-agers burned to death while trapped in the wreckage of their car at Conners, Rockland county.

Hunting Fatality

Weekend victims of fatal accidents also included a man shot while hunting and a navy petty officer who fell from a hotel ledge.

Killed at Oneonta last night were Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Traders, both 68; Mrs. Alice O. Andersen, 65; Mrs. Traders' sister, all of Elmira, and Mrs. Georgianna Patrick, 64, principal of an Oneonta school.

State police said the Traders car headed west, mounted a bank on the right side of a curve, swerved back onto the highway and collided with an eastbound car driven by Mrs. Patrick's husband, who was injured critically.

Grade Crossing Mishap

Mrs. Ella Hoyte and children, Bessie, 10, and Edwin, 14, were killed when their car was hit last night at a grade crossing of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad.

Two other children were injured, one critically.

The family had been returning from church services. Eugene Montieth and John Karlow, both 19 and both of New City, burned to death early Saturday while trapped in their car after it hit a tree. Witnesses, who said they saw and heard the youths screaming in the fire, included state safety director Michael H. Prendergast.

Fired at Gray Object

William C. Turner, 59, of Endicott, was shot fatally Saturday while hunting in Apalachin. Sheriff's deputies said Dale Heeter of Apalachin Creek had fired the shot. They quoted Heeter as saying he had fired at a gray object. Turner had been wearing a gray cap.

Other victims: New York—Hubert Brownlee, 38, a navy chief petty officer, fell four floors from hotel ledge Saturday attempting to re-enter locked room.

Hopewell Junction — Charles Valentino, about 50, the Bronx, in two-car collision yesterday.

Bolivar — Patrick McDevitt, 82, hit by car Saturday.

Forestville — Albert L. Franklin, 21, car overturned yesterday.

Ganesvoort — James Beagle, 10, car hit tree yesterday.

Buffalo — Richard J. Guillon Jr., 45, car hit tree Saturday night.

Batavia — Joseph T. McDonald, 65, of Gardenville, Saturday, when hit by car while standing at own parked car on Thruway.

PACKAGING FOR PEOPLE

One of the most important trends in business today is the great importance given to "the package." A manufacturer develops a new product or wants to give a new boost to an old product. One of his first considerations is the package. What type will keep it in the best condition on the dealer's shelf and also be attractive to the buyer and convenient for his use?

One of the most outstanding jobs in packaging has been done on man himself. Modern science is not likely to improve on the job that was originally done millions of years ago. Tender as it is and subject to cuts and bruises, human skin is designed to last a lifetime, constantly renewing itself.

No commercial manufacturer could afford to give each package of his product a unique design. But your package is uniquely your own. The pattern of your fingerprints is never duplicated. The skin from one part of your body can be transplanted to another part, but when transplanted to any other but an identical twin, will live only for awhile.

Your skin is an efficient storehouse. Fats and water, salts, sugars, and other essentials are stored in your skin and can be returned to the blood stream when they are needed elsewhere. Your skin can even supply emergency blood to vital organs on demand.

Keeping your temperature normal is part of the skin's job. The blood vessels expand to increase the heat loss and cool the body and contract to con-

Why We Say--

FIRE STOKER: A modern-day chauffeur might be insulted if he were asked to stoke a fire besides driving an automobile. Actually the word means one who stokes the fire (from the French). In 1900 the word was switched to an automobile driver because cars burned wood and had to be stoked by the chauffeur.

serve the warmth in the body. The sweat glands in the skin are also devices to regulate temperature. Nerve endings throughout the skin provide the "sense of touch" — a warning system which helps us protect our bodies from heat, cold and pain.

Despite the fact that the efficiency of the human package has proved itself, man (and woman) is constantly trying to improve its appearance. Sometimes by decorating it with paints and by scorching it to achieve a fashionable tan, man injures the delicate fabric that covers him. But its magnificent capacity to renew itself usually baffles man's efforts.

Deadline Oct. 30 For SS College Test Applications

The chairmen of Selective Service Boards in the city and county today reminded college and university students that application blanks for the Selective Service College Qualification test must be postmarked not later than midnight Tuesday, Oct. 30, 1956.

The test will be given Nov. 15 at 51 testing centers in New York state and at approximately 950 centers in the country outside of New York.

Locale of Tests

Dr. Robert K. Ploss, chairman of Local Board 18, City of Kingston, and Meyer Regenbogen, chairman of Local Board 19, of Ulster county, said the tests will be given at these locations in this area: Orange County Community College, Middletown; New Paltz State Teachers' College and Poughkeepsie High School.

Dr. Ploss and Mr. Regenbogen urged students whose academic year ends in January, 1957, to take the Nov. 15 test so there will be a test score on file when the local boards reopen and reconsider their classification.

"A student may obtain an application from any Selective Service local board," they said, "and it is not necessary to obtain the application from the student's own local board."

Eligibility Points

To be eligible to apply for the test, the student must:

1) Intend to request deferment as a student.

2) Be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction, and

3) Must not have taken the qualification test previously.

"A student deferment is not an exemption," the local board chairman explained, "and in no way cancels a registrant's military obligation. As a matter of fact, a deferment automatically extends his age of liability to his 35th birthday."

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON
TAXPAYERS' WINDFALL

Remember the howl over the "giveaway" when Congress passed the "Tidelands Bill" in 1953? That bill restored to the States their mineral rights in submerged coast lands to their historic boundaries and settled Uncle Sam's title to everything beyond those boundaries.

MR. HUTTON

Adlai Stevenson is still hollering about "that awful steal."

The facts contradict him. With the boundaries settled so that the oil companies know who owns what, they have paid Uncle huge sums for the right to drill.

Some of these leases run up to $2,000 an acre of open sea with no assurance of oil or gas beneath. A well 63 miles off Galveston in 93 feet of salt water has just been abandoned as a dry hole after spending a million bucks, not counting the lease money paid Uncle.

To date, Uncle is ahead of the game by hundreds of millions. The oil companies are "down" $1,250,000,000, and have recovered only a fifth of that amount, leaving them a billion in the red.

Six wildcat wells in 10 have been "dry." Oil and gas have been found, and in time the companies will get back their "stake," and more. But Uncle will continue to be paid a sixth royalty on all they produce without risking a dime.

To date, neighbor, the only winner is your dear Uncle. Some "giveaway"!

City Manager Calls Stratton Raid 'Grandstand'

Schenectady, Oct. 22 (AP)—City Manager Arthur Blessing says that a gambling raid led by Mayor Samuel Stratton was a "grandstand" move.

Stratton — the only elected Democrat in the city administration — held that the raid yesterday produced evidence that gambling was flourishing in Schenectady "apparently with little fear of reprisal from those in power."

Ten men arrested face court action today. Blessing said the raid would have been "100 per cent more effective had normal police procedures been followed."

Stratton led two policemen, two Democratic nominees for the state legislature and a reporter to a building a block from City Hall. The mayor said a dice game was in progress.

When there was no response to knocks on a side door, the raiders broke a window and summoned police reinforcements.

Some Get Away

Reporter Peter Muller of the Schenectady Gazette said he saw about 15 men run out a front door and about six jump from second-floor windows.

Police said they had confiscated gambling equipment and about $45 in cash.

Blessing said he agreed with Stratton that gambling should be suppressed but disagreed with "the grandstand method."

Stratton was accompanied by William Murphy, a professor of English at Union College and a Democratic nominee for state senator, and by George Palmer, an attorney and Democratic nominee for state assemblyman. Stratton was elected last year to a four-year term.

Corporal Vernon Burge became the U. S. Army's first enlisted air pilot in 1912.

Onteora School Offers Course On Radioactivity

How you can protect yourself from the dangers of radioactive fallout will be one of the subjects in the course to be presented Wednesday at 7:30-9:30 p. m. in the school building by the Onteora Central School Adult Education advisory committee.

The two-hour course is free of charge and open to the public. It will utilize materials produced by the Federal Civil Defense Administration and will include a filmstrip presentation. John Moehle, former chief, Civil Defense for schools in New York state will serve as class instructor.

To Show Effects

The effects of radioactive fallout, how civil defense plans to meet this threat and methods of personal protection will be covered in the course.

Radioactive fallout is a hazard to every person in the United States, even to those in isolated areas hundreds of miles away from H-bomb targets, according to Major Edgar H. Timmerman, civil defense director. "When an H-bomb explodes on the ground, or close enough so that the fireball touches the ground, large amounts of pulverized surface material are drawn up into the bomb cloud. This material is contaminated by the highly radioactive bomb products."

New York State Education Department has recommended that instruction be provided in this course in more than 600 communities in the state which maintain Adult Education programs.

State Poll Shows Ike Strong Among Negro Democrats

New York, Oct. 22 (AP)—The New York Daily News said today an analysis of ballots cast so far in its presidential poll in New York state indicates that President Eisenhower has "cut deeply into the normally Democratic Negro vote."

The indication is, the News said, "That President Eisenhower has accomplished what no Republican candidate has been able to do since early New Deal days."

"This switch in loyalties," the story added, "has been a significant factor in helping Eisenhower to run consistently stronger in the straws than in the actual vote he got four years ago."

With 8,962 straw votes tallied, these statewide percentage standings were given:

Eisenhower—60.8.
Adlai E. Stevenson—39.2.

The News, which is supporting Eisenhower editorially, plans to poll a total of 30,000 people. The secret poll, which entered its second week today, will continue through Nov. 3—the Saturday before election day.

Report in Part

The News reported in part today:

"Making his first bid for public office in 1952, Eisenhower won New York state in the election with 55.5 per cent of the vote, so his rising pace this year has indicated from the start of the News poll that he has been cutting into Democratic power...."

"Yesterday, with six full days of balloting to go on, the Eisenhower gain in the voting affection of Negroes was clearly apparent...."

The News said the straws indicated that whether the ballots were cast in Negro districts of New York City or in Negro communities upstate, Eisenhower was getting upward of 40 per cent of the Negro vote.

"Last night," the News said, "the cumulative total of the straws gathered in Negro communities was 44.1 per cent for Eisenhower."

"The tremendous upset in Negro voting that such a share represents is clear from comparisons with the past. Eisenhower himself, at the same point in the 1952 straw poll, was getting only 23 per cent of the Negro ballots...."

CR Big Factor

"Voluntary comments by Negro straw voters indicate that the civil rights issue is the biggest factor in the switch to Eisenhower...."

Among the News' comments on voting upstate was this:

"Continued polling in the non-urban sections of Erie county showed Eisenhower stronger than 1952, but so far there has been no balloting in Buffalo, where the Democrats have their greatest strength...."

The results so far in Erie county were Eisenhower 67.5 per cent and Stevenson 32.5 per cent—with Eisenhower's actual vote in the county in 1952 listed as 56.3 per cent.

Interest Rates—Security Prices

By HARRY C. FRANCE

Firm interest rates have forced bond and noncallable preferred stock prices down. Inviting investment situations are thus created.

As I write this, the obligations of such leading corporations as Standard Oil of New Jersey can be bought for 85 cents on the dollar, of American Telephone and Telegraph for 82 cents, of Bethlehem Steel for 89 cents and of Westinghouse Electric for 90 cents.

Why have these prices gone down? Well, it all started when the powerful Federal Reserve Board in Washington, alert to the inflationary trends developing, raised the basic interest rate charged banks that borrow from the 12 Federal Reserve Banks.

Government bonds have also gone down in price under the impact of more costly money. The long-term (due in 1955) U. S. Government 3 per cent bonds are selling at 95; the 2½ per cent obligations that can be called in ten years can be bought at around 91.

And a dozen good grade, instantly marketable noncallable preferred stocks of leading corporations can be bought at attractive prices. Brokers can furnish such a list.

By judicious selection, a well-diversified list of noncallable, fixed-dividend-paying securities can be organized to yield around 5 per cent.

Actions of Board

Wise investors should always keep tabs on what the Federal Reserve Board in Washington does. This board can make money cheap or expensive by changing its policies. One of the functions of this column is to inform its readers of action the board takes that will influence security prices.

Just now, the board makes money more expensive. When will it make money cheaper? Probably at the time a business recession threatens. What action might the board take? The board might reduce the discount rate; it might cut the reserve requirements of the banks that are members of the Federal Reserve System, thus releasing millions upon millions of dollars, or it might have the Federal Reserve Banks themselves buy government securities from member banks, thus giving the banks more money.

Challenging Time

It is a challenging time to trustees and to managers of fiduciary funds. For the first time in almost two decades they are confronted with attractive situations where, in good grade bonds and preferred stocks, yields of from 4 to 5 per cent are available.

It is also an enlightening time to millions of investors who are inexperienced in common stock investment but who need higher wages on their capital.

It is a sobering time to many common stock holders whose profits are large and whose financial foundations need strengthening. In the coming weeks I shall write about this matter in a more practical way. In my next article I shall discuss in some detail the financial affairs of a young executive, now 36, whose $8,000 worth of stocks bought starting in 1947 can today be sold for $26,000!

Should he take some profits? Yes. Then, what should he do? This will be covered in my next article.

The Forum

(Q) "When the book value of a stock is higher than its market price, is it a buy?"

(A) Not necessarily. The quality and earning power of the assets making up book value must be carefully evaluated. The book value of a popular railroad stock is $145 a share, yet it sells for $35. Federal regulation of passenger and freight rates holds earnings down.

Harry C. France will answer one letter each week through this column. If you have any investment questions, write in care of this newspaper.

New Law Governs Auto Insurance

(Last in a Series)

Residents of other states, who drive their cars and trucks in New York, will find this state safer, more secure because of the new Motor Vehicle Financial Security Act. But non-residents must be prepared to comply with most of the same provisions as residents.

Although it will be a crime to drive an uninsured New York-registered motor vehicle in this state on and after next February 1, criminal penalties will not apply in the same way to vehicles from other states.

But non-residents who drive their cars in New York should have the same liability insurance coverage as a New York-registered vehicle or they may well encounter difficulties.

Counsel Tells Why

In reply to questions from non-residents, as to how the new law will apply to them, the counsel to the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles has put it this way:

"All motor vehicles registered in other jurisdictions should be insured in limits of at least $10,200,500 before being operated in this state, or the owner and operator will be subject to the 'penalty' provisions thereof.

"The act does not make it an offense for a non-resident motor vehicle to be operated on the highways of this state without adequate financial security. However, upon receipt of evidence that such an 'uninsured' motor vehicle has been operated upon the highways of this state, the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles will revoke the driving privileges of the person operating and the privilege of the owner to have any motor vehicle owned by him operated within the state, for a period of one year.

"In addition, if an 'uninsured' motor vehicle is involved in an accident while operating in this state, certain other additional steps will have to be taken with respect to clearing up outstanding causes of action and unpaid judgments before the non-resident privileges can be restored, even after the expiration of the one year period.

"The statute does not presently require any person to carry with him evidence of insurance and no violation occurs in the event of such a failure. However, as I indicated above, lack of insurance would result in revocation of non-resident privileges."

In addition, it has been pointed out that a non-resident who operates, in New York, a vehicle registered in New York, knowing that it is uninsured, is subject to criminal provisions of the law.

Also, the New York Commissioner of Motor Vehicles is required by law to notify the motor vehicle administrator of the home state when a non-resident is convicted in New York of any violation of the new law or when non-resident privileges in New York have been revoked.

Get Same Benefits

But non-residents will have the same benefits to look forward to as residents.

They will be able to drive in New York with a fresh feeling of security not possible on the highways of any other state.

Like residents, they will be able to use our streets and highways with the assurance that, for every New York vehicle on the road, evidence of financial security has been given.

Benefits of the new law will be universal.

The Motor Vehicle Bureau's new informational brochure on the compulsory insurance statute puts it this way:

"You will know that if you are the innocent victim of a traffic accident, involving any motor vehicle registered in New York, the responsible owner or driver has insurance, or other security—unless he is operating in violation of a new law which imposes stern penalties on the violator."

Governor Harriman calls the new law "a great step forward towards securing just treatment and assuring a greater measure of safety."

The Motor Vehicle Bureau says: "If your motor vehicle is not already covered by liability insurance of at least ten-twenty-five, make arrangements to get it at once so you will have your Certificate of Insurance (FS-1) ready to submit with your application for 1957 registration plates. Once insured, maintain your security coverage without any interruption to avoid license revocation and other penalties."

Foxy Plays Beat Declarer

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When you cannot defeat a contract by force, you may be able to do so by deception. The principle is illustrated in a hand defended by Jim Geilfuss, one of the regular players in the Milwaukee Y.M.C.A., where the Jacoby Individual Tournament will be held this coming Saturday.

Geilfuss opened the four of clubs, and dummy won with the ace. At first glance it seemed that declarer had no problems. He would lose two spades and a heart, but would easily make the rest. This was, however, not the way things turned out.

At the second trick, declarer finessed the jack of spades, losing to the queen. Geilfuss calmly returned the five of clubs. Assuming that the king of clubs was in the East hand, declarer played low from the dummy.

East naturally played the jack, and South ruffed.

Declarer next led the king of spades, forcing out the ace. Once more, Geilfuss underled his king of clubs. South could have covered the ten of clubs with dummy's queen, but he didn't dream that West would have the nerve to underlead the king of clubs so consistently. There would be no advantage in playing the queen of clubs from dummy if East had the king, as South supposed so declarer played a low club from dummy.

South had to ruff again, and had to use up all of his trumps in order to draw those held by West. This was exactly what Geilfuss had been planning. As soon as hearts were led, Geilfuss could put up the ace of hearts and take the setting trick with the king of clubs.

Parent Says Alternate School Plan Would Be Obsolete Soon

A Woodland valley resident, in a communication to The Freeman, today endorsed the regional schools plan for proposed building expansion in the Onteora Central School district because "the considered alternate plans will obviously be obsolete within five years."

Mrs. John Lurie, Jr., said she is interested in securing the "best possible education for my children within my means and that is why I am in favor of the regional schools plan as proposed by the majority of the Onteora board of education."

Opinions of some 200 persons who attended a meeting at the school Friday night sponsored by the Onteora Taxpayers Committee indicated they favor use of present acreage at the school for proposed building expansion, it was reported.

Taxpayers of the school district will vote next month on a proposed $1,125,000 expansion program bond issue.

The proposal envisages construction of three region school buildings at sites at Lake Hill, Allaben and Brown's Station.

Interested as Parent

Mrs. Lurie's letter read as follows: "An article released Oct. 4 by the Onteora Taxpayers Committee stated that they were interested in securing the best possible education for their children within their means and wondered why more detailed and comprehensive studies of plans other than the Regional Schools plan had not been made."

"As a parent, I too, am interested in securing the best possible education for my children within my means and that is why I am in favor of the Regional Schools Plan as proposed by the majority of the Onteora Board of Education. I do not think that it is within my means to support the considered alternate plans which will obviously be obsolete within five years."

Praises Board

"The estimated enrollment figures were compiled by people whom I consider experts,—the Board of Education—elected by the people of their communities; and Mr. John Moehle whose capabilities as an administrator cannot be questioned by anyone who has taken the time and effort to see how he handles each problem at Onteora. I, for one, have no qualifications to quarrel with their figures or judgment."

In reviewing these figures, one can see why the majority of the board and Mr. Moehle felt that many months of detailed and comprehensive studies of a 19-room addition to our present building or one centrally located elementary building would be precious time lost in relieving the present acutely overcrowded conditions at Onteora. Ten additional rooms plus necessary added cafeteria and gymnasium space would be filled to capacity with our present overflow at the expense and waste of nearly $500,000.

The cost of one centrally located 21-classroom elementary building would be $1,041,120. It could accommodate 630 students with 30 pupils to a classroom. 25 is the ideal number for a classroom. Three regional schools would cost $1,125,000. The question is often raised as to how 3 schools could be built for very little more than one large one. Some of the reasons are that each regional school would have one all-purpose room which would be a combination cafeteria, gymnasium and auditorium and one principal's office. A large 21-room building would necessarily have to have a separate cafeteria for 630, a separate gym for 630 and a separate auditorium which in a school of that size is required by the State Education Dept.

"The administrative area of a large building would, of course, have to have facilities to handle the business of a 630-pupil school. The play areas would also have to accommodate the 630 pupils. These factors bring up the cost. It is estimated that by 1965 we will have about 1172 elementary pupils—almost double the number which could be handled by a 21-room central elementary building. Undoubtedly, we would be faced with a sizeable bond issue by that time."

Considers Tax Angle

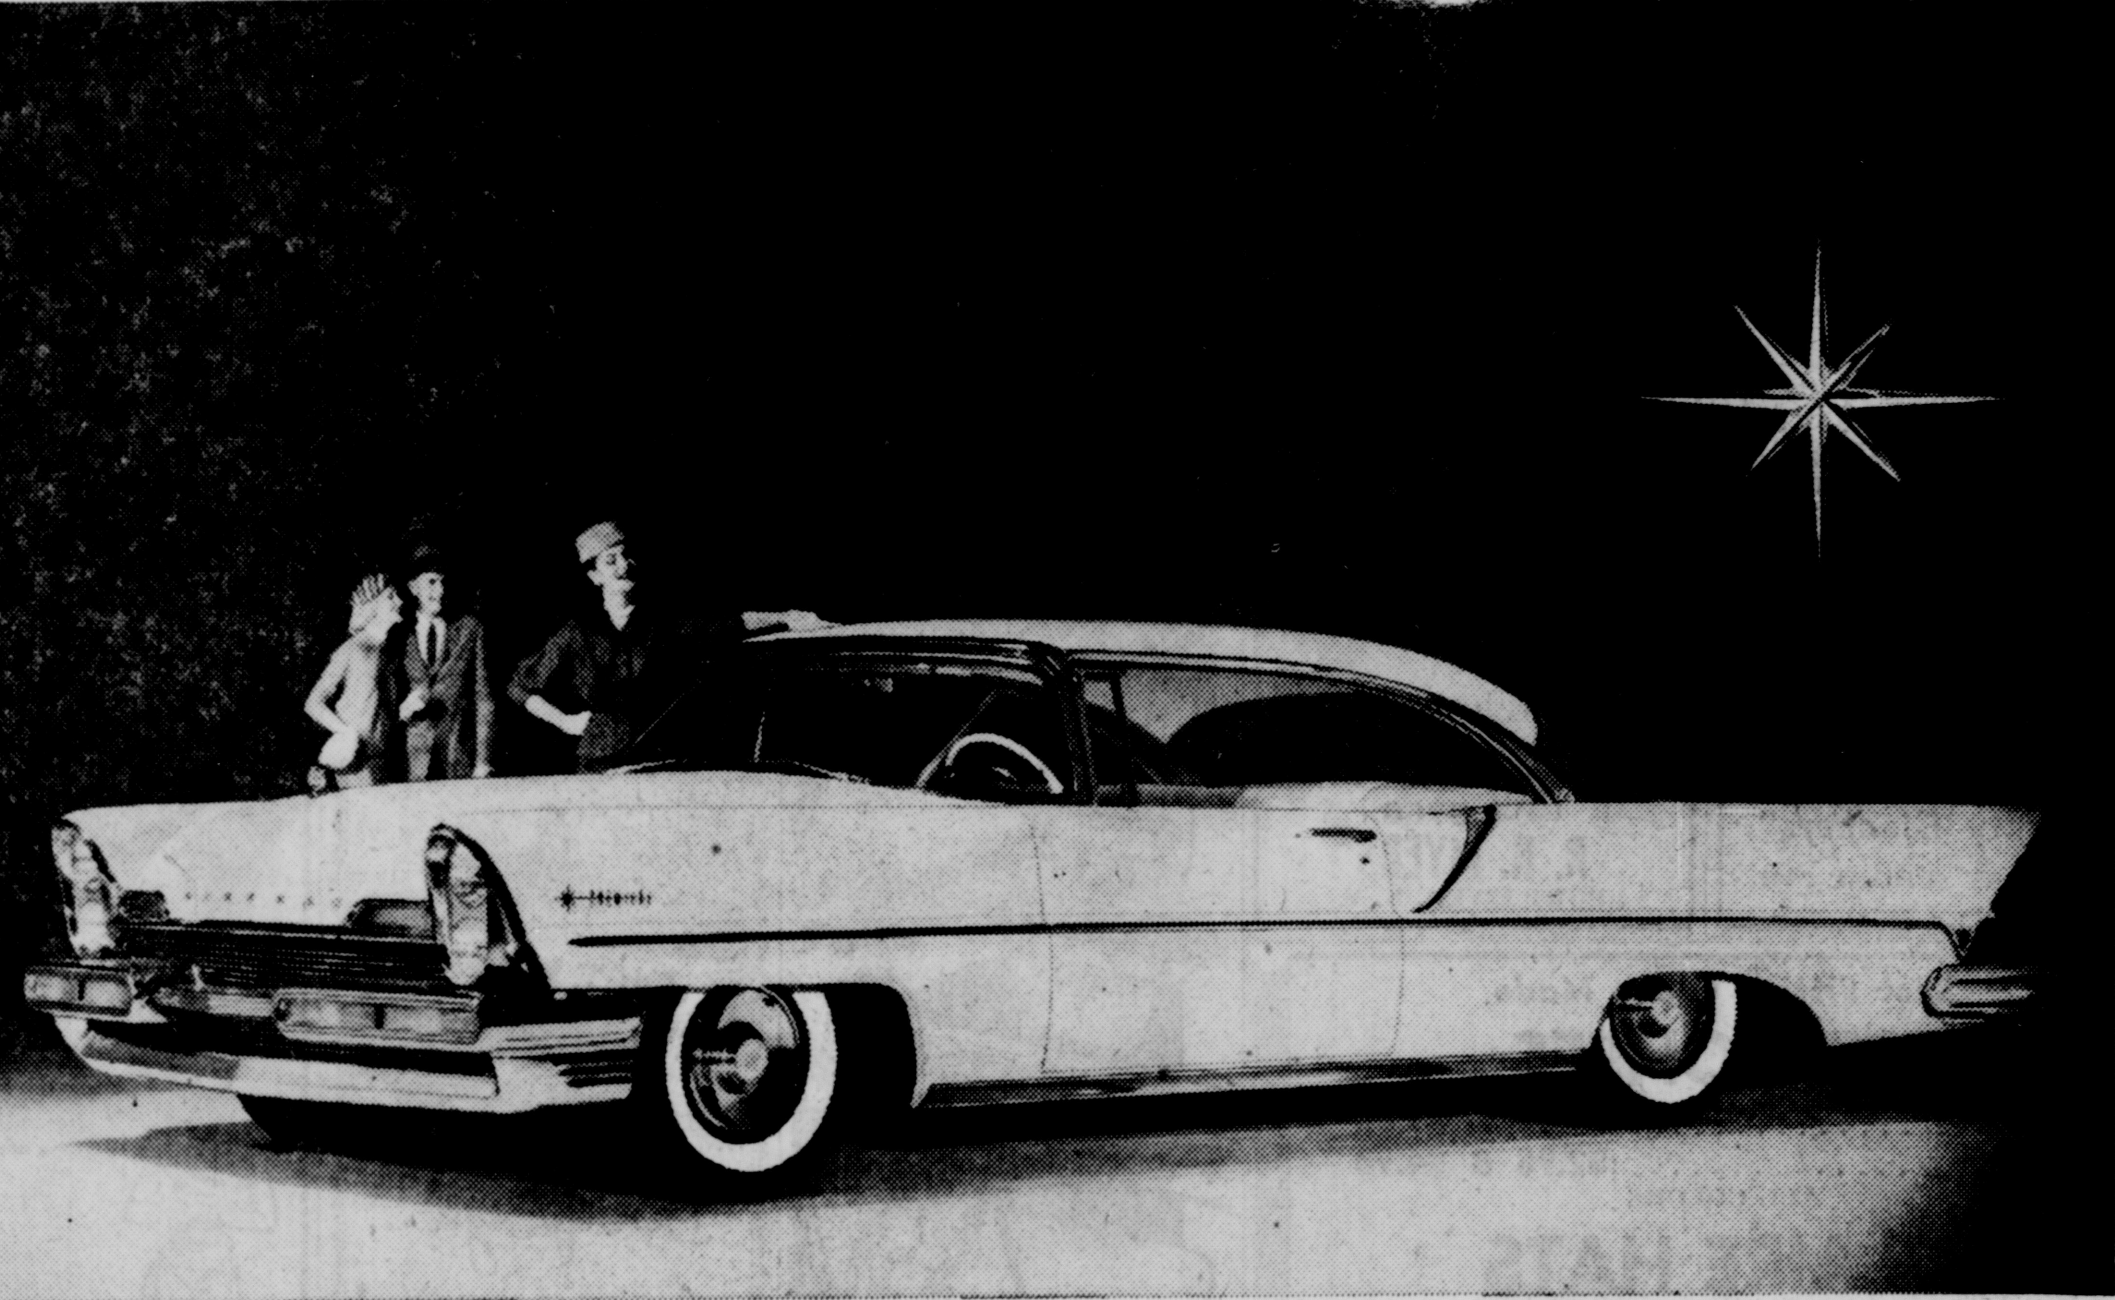

"Since the cost of these two plans would be about the same—

rather than the cost of an education. This quality will be found in the regional schools. Not only will they retain all of the present facilities available to the elementary pupil in our present central school but will have the added advantages of a more relaxed atmosphere, free from the tensions which are inevitable in a very large group and in the event of an emergency or disaster—which is not unthinkable these days—it surely would be safer to have such a large number of children divided into smaller groups than to have 1,600 and very likely 2,000 concentrated in one area. The problem of transportation would be simplified for many children who are now leaving their homes at 7:15 or 7:30 a. m. and do not return until 4:30 or 4:45 p. m.

"This is my case for the Regional School Plan and I do believe that there are sufficient numbers of enlightened and far-seeing citizens in the Onteora district who will vote for the Regional Schools Plan to make it a reality."

Mary Ann Ellis Weds Daniel Hardenbergh

In the Asbury Methodist Church, Crestwood, on Saturday, Sept. 29 at 1:30 p. m., Miss Mary Ann Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Ellis 3d, of 15 Manor Drive, Yonkers, became the bride of Daniel Kingman Hardenbergh, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hardenbergh of Pleasantville. The bridegroom is also the grandson of Mrs. William Kingman and the late Mr. Kingman. His parents were former residents of Kingston and Hurley and are of the original Hardenbergh family of Stone Ridge. The Rev. John H. McComb performed the ceremony. Miss Barbara Louise Ellis was her sister's maid of honor and the other attendants were Mrs. Gerold Green, Mrs. Joseph Hinesey, Mrs. Ward Ingalsbe, Miss Carole Leland and Miss Nancy Miller. David S. Willis was best man. The bride, who made her debut at the Westchester Cotillion in 1952, was graduated magna cum laude from Syracuse University, 1956, where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and was vice-president of Women's Student Government. Mr. Hardenbergh was graduated cum laude from Brown University, 1956, where he was a member of Sphinx Club and president of Phi Gamma Delta Chapter. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the air force and he and his bride, after a trip to the West Coast, will be at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex., after Oct. 19.

RESIDENTS RECEIVE CALLERS—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis, residents of the Home for the Aged for the past ten years, are shown discussing Donation Day with (l-r) Mrs. Dewees DeWitt, chairman of the calling committee and, standing, Bertram Tandy, superintendent of the home. 35th Annual Donation Day and Tea Set For October 25 at Home for the Aged

These are busy days at the Home for the Aged because residents, members of the board of managers and board of trustees are getting ready for the annual Donation Day and tea which has been set for Thursday, Oct. 25.

The event will be held at the Home, 80 Washington avenue, from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Enthusiasm runs high particularly among the residents. Mrs. Frank Davis, who has resided at the home for the past ten years with her husband told The Freeman that each year she looks forward to Donation Day with more and more anticipation. Mrs. Davis, who will celebrate her 90th birthday in November, said she and her husband who is 87, were already making plans to spend most of that day visiting with friends and visitors at the home.

The Davis' are wonderful examples of life at the Home for the Aged. Their days are full and interesting; they participate in various activities along with other residents and receive many callers.

Bertram Tandy and his wife are superintendents of the home. Mr. Tandy remarked that the average age of the 36 people now living there is 86. Although the job of superintending is complex, including the operation of the building, planning programs, procuring help and maintaining the general health and happiness of the people, he and his wife thoroughly enjoy their duties.

The Home for the Aged receives no public funds to assist in its maintenance and what is received in cash donations, food and proceeds on Donation Day is of great importance. The Home is rated third highest in the state of New York for institutions of its size.

The board of trustees is comprised of 24 prominent residents of Kingston and Ulster county, who handle financial affairs and capital expenditures in conjunction with the Home. The board of managers consists of 24 women who are responsible for the housekeeping and general happiness of the 36 residents. All are volunteers and give generously of their time throughout the year.

In addition to the board of managers, there is an associate membership of more than 100 persons and anyone interested in the work at the Home may become an associate member for a very nominal fee.

In a discussion with Mrs. Dewees DeWitt, chairman of the visiting committee, who was calling on Mrs. Davis at the time, The Freeman learned that members of the visiting committee take turns in calling upon residents to see that they are comfortable and to discuss any problems they might have. Members of this committee include Miss Jane Austen, Mrs. Viola Babcock, Mrs. Severny Hasbrouck, Mrs. Richard Thibaut and Mrs. Howard St. John.

All the folks at the Home for the Aged hope the public will once again respond generously to Donation Day and tea on Thursday.

4-H Clubs Begin Project Work

Twenty-five Ulster County 4-H Clubs have reorganized and started project work for the 1956-57 season.

These 4-H Clubs have elected new officers and planned their programs for the coming year. Officers of most of these clubs were installed at the 4-H Achievement Night held recently at the Myron J. Michael school in Kingston.

Project that will be taken up by these clubs include dairy, poultry, foods, clothing, electricity, Christmas greens, gardening and crafts.

To organize a 4-H Club it is necessary to have at least five boys and, or, girls and an adult 4-H Club leader. Anyone interested in organizing a 4-H Club should contact E. R. Bower, 4-H Club agent or Patricia French, assistant 4-H Club Agent, 74 John street, Kingston.

Mail Strike Ends

New Delhi, India, Oct. 22 (AP)—A four-day Communist-led mail sorters strike ended today. Two hundred workers returned to the job and faced the task of sorting the thousands of letters and packages which had accumulated during their idleness. The strike started when the sorters protested transfer of three fellow employees. Government officials promised to look into the workers' complaints.

Ghear Is 'Fair' At Benedictine

Robert L. Ghear, 26, of High Falls, who suffered painful injuries in a two-car collision on Route 213 in the hamlet of Lawrenceville early Sunday night, was reported in "fair" condition today at Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. Ghear was taken to the hospital by Moylan Ambulance of Rosendale suffering lacerations of the upper lip and right knee, chest injuries and bruises to both legs.

Adelaide H. Snyder, 54, of Rosendale, was treated by her own physician for minor injuries, it was reported.

Deputy Sheriff Donald Beaumont of the Ulster county sheriff's office said the Snyder car was traveling east toward Rosendale around a sharp right curve when it was in collision with another vehicle operated by Mr. Ghear proceeding west toward High Falls. He said the head-on collision occurred in the westbound lane.

Time of the accident was listed by the sheriff's office as 9:20 p. m. The front ends of both cars were "demolished."

Two Persons Hurt In Traffic Mishap

Two persons were injured, a property was damaged, and a driver was arrested on a stop-sign charge as the result of a two-car collision at Washington avenue and the Boulevard Sunday morning.

A police report at 9:05 a. m., said that Alan Jay Roberts, 30, of 1347 Ocean avenue, Brooklyn, was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment of injuries of the nose, arms and left leg, and Alton Roosa, 50, of 26 Esopus avenue, was taken there for x-rays. The extent of his injuries was not reported. Roosa was thrown from his car onto the lawn at 40 Boulevard, the report said.

Roberts was arrested by Roosa, the report said, on the charge that he had passed a full-stop sign. The case was adjourned until Oct. 30 when Roberts appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today.

Sgt. Thomas Tomshaw, and Officer Charles McCullough, who investigated, said the Roosa sedan was headed northeast on the Boulevard, and the station wagon, driven by Roberts, and owned by the Auto Rental Corp., 257 Pleasant street, Worcester, Mass., was headed southeast on Washington avenue.

Police reported the Roosa car as a "total wreck" and said the station wagon was damaged on the entire front end. Both were towed from the scene. The injured men were taken to the hospital by Herman Roosa, of 385 Washington avenue.

A section of lawn and a tree on the property of Leland DeWitt, of 40 Boulevard, were reported damaged.

Admiral of Fleet

London, Oct. 22 (P)—Adm. Earl Mountbatten, first sea lord and chief of the British naval staff, has been promoted to the navy's highest rank—Admiral of the Fleet. No Rock N' Roll

London, Oct. 22 (P)—American Jazzman Lionel Hampton won't be able to play a concert in Royal Albert Hall on Friday. The directors say they won't allow rock n' roll there. The directors took the action after getting reports on Hampton's first concert at Empress Hall yesterday. Shouting teen-agers excited by the music of Hampton and his band of 20 American performers smashed several tiers of seats. Said Hampton later: "The only way we could stop them was to play God Save the Queen. That saved us, too."

Killed on Rt. 3

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Oct. 22 (P)—Henry F. Wamsanz, 30, of Saranac Lake, was killed and a companion was injured last night when their automobile hurtled down an embankment on a curve on Route 3. David Munn, 26, also of Saranac Lake, suffered a broken neck but managed to crawl 30 yards to the road to flag for help. Attaches at Saranac Lake General Hospital described his condition today as serious. The accident occurred about three miles south of here.

Nurse Home Rule

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 2 (P)—The State Social Welfare Board has adopted rules that require any nursing home established in New York after Jan. 1, 1957, to employ at least one registered nurse, a spokesman said today. Deputy Commissioner Joseph Louchheim also said a registered nurse must be hired to supervise nursing service in any existing home sold after that date, if the new owner is not a licensed nurse. Under present regulations, licensed practical nurses may be employed in place of registered nurses.

NEW KIND OF LIFE INSURANCE FOR CHILDREN

Jumps 5 times in value at age 21 with no added cost!

Have you a child or a grandchild between the ages of 1 and 15? If so, our new JUNIOR ESTATE BUILDER policy—which we've nicknamed the "Jumping Juvenile"—will assure him $5000 of life insurance at age 21 for every $1000 you buy him now!... with no increase in cost and with no further proof of insurability.

You see, this savings-type life insurance automatically jumps to 5 times its original value when the youngster reaches 21, yet the premium does not change throughout the life of the policy.

Here's the ideal way to guarantee your child a substantial amount of life insurance, at low juvenile rates, as he takes on grown-up responsibilities—with important cash values available for earlier education or later emergencies.

The sooner you buy the lower the rate. For details in terms of age you specify, please fill out and return the coupon.

Better Business Campaign Against Fictitious Prices

The nation's Better Business Bureaus have launched a national program to combat the use of fictitious comparative price claims in advertising, according to Kenneth B. Willson, president of the National Better Business Bureau.

He said the program, under development for more than a year, was adopted recently in Savannah, Georgia, at the annual conference of Better Business Bureaus.

Mr. Willson noted that while many fictitious or unsubstantiated comparative prices originate at the local retail level, the problem is complicated by fake pre-ticketing, inflated list prices and other deceptive pricing practices carried on by some national and regional manufacturers.

"As a result," he said, "it is well nigh impossible to expect local retailers to voluntarily and independently agree to bring their comparative price claims down to earth. That is one reason for this collective action by the Better Business Bureaus."

He reported that all Better Business Bureaus have been concerned with this problem for a long time, but that it had become "increasingly acute" in the past year or two.

The National Better Business Bureau has been shocked, Mr. Willson stated, "by the use of fictitious prices by manufacturers as a deliberate scheme to fool the public. The advertiser who misrepresents as to price is just as culpable as the advertiser who falsely describes his product in any other respect."

"Particularly reprehensible," Mr. Willson said, "has been the willingness of some national manufacturers and distributors to establish inflated 'list' prices for their merchandise and to pre-ticket it with prices which serve no purpose other than to provide a plausible prop for fictitious comparative price claims at the retail level. We have also encountered instances where companies have used national magazine advertising to quote ridiculously inflated prices at which they had neither the hope nor the intent of selling the advertised merchandise. They have then used these ads as technical justification for referring to the fictitious inflated price at a nationally advertised price in subsequent copy offering the merchandise at illusory markdowns."

According to Mr. Willson, the Better Business Bureaus consider the use of dishonest price comparisons and the use of bait advertising to be the two major abuses in advertising today. He characterized these practices as "the twin shames of advertising."

Mr. Willson noted that reputable advertisers at both the local and national levels are seriously concerned about the threat to public confidence in all advertising created in growing public skepticism of money price comparisons.

"Our objective," Mr. Willson stated, "is to see comparative price claims on a realistic, provable basis which will merit public confidence. The National Better Business Bureau is asking all national companies to cooperate in strengthening public confidence in advertising by avoiding all false and deceptive price claims in their own copy and by refusing to use inflated list prices or to pre-ticket their merchandise prices which will serve as a basis for fictitious comparative claims at the retail level."

Representatives from the 9059th Air Reserve Group, Newburgh, commanded by Lt. Col. Richard W. Platt, will outline the training program and benefits available to reservists, including maintenance of skills, for training assemblies, paid two-week active duty tours, free insurance, liberal retirement pay, promotion and numerous other benefits.

To Form Kingston Group Current plans call for establishment of another pay status training flight in the Kingston area. Similar flights, which meet on the average of two evenings a month for training and pay are now organized at Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Goshen and New Paltz.

Prior service personnel from any branch of the service may enroll in the grade held at the time of discharge. Certain personnel who have achieved additional qualifications may enroll in a higher grade. In order to determine the rank in which they may enlist, veterans are requested to bring all available service records with them.

Promotion comes rapidly to reservists who participate in the program and there are additional opportunities for appointment to commissioned and warrant status for qualified men.

Rutgers Will Award Area Scholarships

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 22 (AP)—Rutgers University announced today establishment of two $600-a-year scholarships for New York and Connecticut students.

Funds for the scholarship were given by Willard H. Safford of Bridgeport, Conn., a Rutgers trustee and vice president of the General Electric Co.

One scholarship will be available to graduates of high schools in Dutchess, Ulster, Sullivan and Orange counties in New York state. The other will go to a graduate of any Connecticut secondary school.

Cost to the American taxpayer to clean up refuse strewn by careless motorists is $15 to $50 a mile per year.

Explode Atom

Adelaide, Australia, Oct. 22 (AP)—Britain exploded its fourth and final atomic device early today in its current tests at Maralinga in the South Australian desert. The flash was seen 650 miles away at Port Augusta. Sir William Penney, atomic scientist in charge, notified Australian Supply Minister Howard Beale the device went off as scheduled.

Held for Shoplifting

Two 13-year-old Mt. Marion boys were arrested on juvenile delinquency charges early Saturday afternoon after a complaint that they had been shoplifting at the Woolworth store, Wall street. A police report shortly before 1 p. m., said they had been caught shoplifting in the store. They were held for appearance in children's court.

Two Pioneers Tell of New Technique In Skull Surgery

Miami Beach, Fla., Oct. 22 (AP)

—Two surgeons, pioneers in a new technique, described today how a patient's ribs can be used to rebuild his skull without leaving him short of ribs.

Drs. Jacob J. Longacre and G. A. De Stefano addressed the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery on "split rib grafts" which they have developed at Christ and Children's Hospitals, Cincinnati, Ohio.

They told of successfully transferring 60 such grafts to the skulls of 11 patients to close wounds which involved as much as half the skull area.

Scaffold for Cells

The grafts, Longacre and De Stefano said, form a scaffold for living cells which quickly lay down new bone tissue. The surgeons said that if the rib used is removed carefully, a new rib forms in as little as 34 days and it too can be used for grafting with assurance another will replace it.

Longacre told newsmen the split rib graft entails splitting the rib lengthwise. Two advantages result, he said. The malleable split sections lend themselves to bending and shaping to fit the wound being closed, and the surfaces foster development of new cells which produce a living bone repair.

Metal plates have been used in the past to close skull wounds but in the case of children, they have to be replaced as the skull grows in size.

The use of plates and other materials sometimes produces complications, as well, Longacre said. He added that even the patient's own ribs have been found unsuitable if removed and stored in a bone-bank before they are used to mend his skull. "An individual is his own best bone-bank," Longacre said.

Ribs Heal Faster

In addition to the regenerative properties of ribs, the surgeon said, they appear to be a comparatively healthy sort of bone material. He said that ribs have demonstrated superior ability to heal after fractures.

Longacre and De Stefano said their first practical use of the split-rib graft more than two years ago was an extensive project on a two-year-old boy whose head had been crushed into gravel by a truck. About 40 per cent of the skull was destroyed. In four separate operations, four ribs were removed from the boy and used to rebuild the 5½-inch wide wound.

FUTURE FARMER PREXY—John M. Haid, Jr., of Siloam Springs, Ark., was elected president of the Future Farmers of America at the organization's 29th annual convention in Kansas City, Mo. Haid, who started his farming program with one Holstein heifer calf, is an agricultural student at Arkansas Polytechnic College, at Russellville, where he is president of the student body. This year he was one of four FFA youths to go to Great Britain in the International Student Exchange program.

The surgeons said the child is alert, developing normally, needs no protective covering for his head, and his rib-cage is normal. Longacre and De Stefano said they worked on split-rib grafts with neurosurgeons at the Cincinnati hospitals.

Oster and Joseph Gain Finals

Join Lavery In Playoff With Ferraro

Two Kingston keggers and one from Poughkeepsie will challenge defending champion, John Ferraro, in the mid-Hudson district All Star tenpin finals next Sunday at Middletown.

Jerry Oster and Ken Joseph trailed James Lavery of Poughkeepsie in that order as the final qualifying round Sunday at Dover Plains failed to alter the standing board.

Lavery, 1st week's leader with 3606, rolled 1159 to gain first place in the eliminations and No. 2 seeding with a 24-game pinfall of 4765.

Oster shot 1166 to move into second place with 4732. Joseph had 1086 for 4642.

In the match play finals next Sunday, Ferraro is seeded No. 1, with Lavery, Oster and Joseph following in order.

Princeton Given Chance to Tie Yale for First

By The Associated Press
Now that they've evened an old score with Colgate, Princeton's Tigers get back to championship business this Saturday in Ivy League football with a chance to regain a share of first place against Cornell.

The Tigers remained unbeaten for the season last weekend by defeating the Red Raiders 28-20, but fell behind Yale in the race to the title as the Elis powered past Cornell 25-7. That left Yale 3-0 to Princeton's 2-0 in the league.

Princeton got the job done for the whole Ivy group in knocking off Colgate—which hadn't lost to the Ivy schools in six meetings. Brown was the last Ivy member to beat Colgate, 18-14, in the last game of the 1954 season.

Morris Paces Tigers
Princeton, rolling with tailback Tom Morris scoring three TDs and passing 53 yards for another against the Red Raiders, doesn't look to have much trouble at Cornell. The Big Red, a pre-season favorite, hasn't been able to shake the injury jinx and now is the only winless club in the league.

Columbia deserted the winless ranks by upsetting Harvard 26-20 Saturday with classy Claude Benham the hero. That puts the Crimson at 1-1 in Ivy play, tied with Dartmouth for fourth place behind Penn's Quakers, of all people. Harvard is at Dartmouth this weekend.

Penn, snapping its 19-game losing streak two weeks ago, continued the comeback with its second victory of the season, a 14-7 edge over Brown (1-3). The Quakers next meet Navy (3-1) in an "outside" contest. The Bruins also go beyond the Ivy barrier, hosting Rhode Island (2-3).

Columbia, having disposed of an 11-game losing streak, now meets Army (2-2).

Housewife Ups Shot Put Mark

Los Angeles, Oct. 22 (AP)—Earlene Brown has added an inch to her own American shot put record.

The Los Angeles housewife tossed the shot 46 feet 10½ inches yesterday in the final Southern Pacific AAU women's track meet in which 19 members of the Olympic team participated.

Paula Deubel of Swansea, Mass., was chosen to fill an open spot on the team when she placed second with a heave of 44 feet 3 inches. A standard of 43 feet had been set to fill the opening.

Qualifying Play Opens In North-South Golf

Pinehurst, N. C., Oct. 22 (AP)—A field of top notch older golfers opens qualifying play today over the Pinehurst Country Club in the fifth annual North and South Invitation Seniors Golf championship.

The low 32 players in the medal play qualifying will make up the championship flight which will compete tomorrow through Saturday.

The tournament, for golfers 55 years old or over, includes Thomas C. Robbins of Larchmont, N. Y., runner up here the

On his marriage license application last year, "perfect pitcher" Don Larsen filled in after occupation: "salesman" . . . he never bothered to notify the Yanks, who found out about it like everyone else—in the papers. . . .

At the World Series, Ernie Shore, now a North Carolina sheriff, revealed that when he went in to relieve Babe Ruth in the first inning in 1917, one on, none out, and went on to pitch a perfect game, he threw just five warm-up pitches! . . .

Cus D'Amato became convinced that now was the time for protégé Floyd Patterson to take on Archie Moore (even if it does mean Chicago, where he fears the officials) . . . and not wait till next summer . . . when the kid told him "Don't worry about my hand, Cus. Even if it's broken, I'll knock him out." . . . "Patterson," adds Cus, "is a kid who doesn't say much." . . .

Hardin-Simmons has figured out a way for its students to maintain interest in games played on the road . . . set up a mock gridiron by laying out ribbons on the floor of the fieldhouse . . . fill the gym stands with students . . . and while the cheerleaders exhort them, move the ball up and down to denote the progress of the game from radio reports . . . there's only one item missing—the cheerleaders can't make their usual entrance on horseback . . . Villanova believes it has another Leon Hart in the making in sophomore wingman Gene Opella . . . he's big enough for the role—6-5, 245 . . . Forlorn figure hanging around the Dodger dressing room was Joey Giardello . . . who used to spend most of his time inside it until he went to prison . . . spark lit up when we asked him about Robinson-Fullmer go . . . "Robinson will kill him," said Joey, "spear him like a fish for 10 rounds, then coast, if he don't knock him out." . . . "And you?" . . . "I could kill the bot' of them." . . .

Steubenville, Ohio, sent three fine football players from one high school to collegiate stardom at Iowa—All-America Cal Jones, Eddie Vincent and Frank Gilliam . . . but a little halfback teammate who wasn't particularly sought and drifted out to Cal Poly may outstrip them all—rookie sensation Perry Jeter of the Chicago Bears . . .

What the Cleveland Browns miss even more than Otto Graham are some running backs who're nifty as well as bull-like and can pick up some yardage with finesse. . . .

Lions and Cardinals Have Leads Threatened

By NICK ELLENA
(The Associated Press)

The two unbeaten kingpins of the National Football League, the Detroit Lions and the Chicago Cardinals, are finding their thrones threatened by rumblings of revolt from below.

The Lions, held to first place in the Western Conference Sunday but barely averted a defeat by the San Francisco 49ers when quarterback Bobby Layne booted a clutch 17-yard field goal just 17 seconds from the end for a 20-17 victory.

The Cardinals, outrushed 229 yards to 125, had to capitalize on six pass interceptions, a blocked field-goal attempt and two fumble recoveries, to down the Philadelphia Eagles 20-6 and retain first place in the Eastern Conference.

Bears Win Easily
Meanwhile, the closest pursuers, the Chicago Bears in the Western Division and the New York Giants in the Eastern Conference displayed their mounting strength with lopsided victories.

The Bears, accumulating 209 yards on the ground, 288 in the air and 26 first downs, buried the Baltimore Colts 38-27 to gain revenge for an early season defeat.

The Giants, now playing in Yankee Stadium, entertained their largest home-opening crowd, 48,108, by trouncing the Pittsburgh Steelers 38-10 on the lumber arm of Chuckie Conerly. The 32-year-old quarterback flipped three scoring passes.

In the other games, the Washington Redskins finally won their first game after three straight defeats, beating the once-proud Cleveland Browns 20-9. The Green Bay Packers, with a sensational Tobin Rote-to-Billy Howton combination, turned back the Los Angeles Rams 42-17.

The Bears' offensive machine is reaching frightening proportions. Sunday's 58 points were the most a Bear team has scored since the 73-0 playoff debacle over Washington in 1940, and raised their per-game total this season to almost 37 points.

Brown-Hill Combination
Two touchdown passes by Ed Brown to Harlow Hill in the second quarter, for 37 and 68 yards, complemented the superlative work of the runners. George Blanda saw his record consecutive string for conversions broken at 156.

But he made up for it by throwing three touchdown passes and kicking a field goal.

The Bears, however, lost their rugged halfback, Bobby Watkins, who aggravated a leg injury. The Colts lost quarterback George Shaw in the second quarter and veteran halfback Carl Taseff in the third through injuries.

Giants Explode
The Giants exploded for 17 points in the second quarter, 14 in the third and 7 in the final one after being behind 3-0 on Gary Glick's first period field goal.

Conerly, ex-Mississippi great, completed 14 of 24 passes for 202 yards. In addition to his payoff tosses to Ken McAfee, Alex Webster and Kyle Rote, Conerly set up two other scores with 19 and 31-yard passes to Frank Gifford. Webster and Gifford accounted for 160 of their team's 247 rushing yards.

The Lions took advantage of an unsuccessful 49ers' fourth down gamble for their victory before 53,662 fans. With San Francisco ahead 17-10 and the ball on the Detroit 41, the 49ers failed to make a first down. The Lions promptly marched for a touchdown on six plays, Layne going over from the one. Halfback John Henry Johnson scored both San Francisco touchdowns, on 2 and 1-yard plunges. Gordy Soltau added a field goal.

Eagles Blow Game
Leading 6-3 in the final quarter, Philadelphia handed the Cardinals the victory. A fumble and an intercepted Bobby Thomson pass set up two touchdowns for the Cardinals and another intercepted Thomson aerial set up the second of Pat Summerall's two field goals.

Halfback Leo Elter scored the first Washington touchdown from 5 yards out and quarterback Eddie LeBaron threw a 19-yard payoff pass to Dick James for the other in a game that saw each club lose its first-string quarterback.

LeBaron re-injured a bad leg and the Browns' George Ratterman was sidelined with a severely wrenched knee that may end his playing career, Lou

Saugerties Routs Schoharie, 43-7 for 5th in Row

Saugerties High School made Schoharie its fifth straight victim Saturday scoring a one-sided 43-7 win over the outclassed upstarters.

Schoharie provided very little competition for the Sawyers who scored in every period but the last. Coach Bill Straub's eleven racked up 291 yards rushing and 129 passing and chalked up 12 first downs to two.

George Neher began the rout with a 40 yard run to paydirt. Tony Fancello made it 12-0 on a 13 yard jaunt.

Neher galloped 23 yards to open the second period blitz. Don Whitaker passed 20 yards to Austin Kerin and 20 yards to Jim Hansen for the Sawyers' fourth and fifth touchdowns and a 30-0 lead at halftime.

After tallying twice more in the third period, the victims rushed in their reserves who finished the game.

Syracuse Faces First Breather In Tilt With BU

By The Associated Press

Syracuse University's football powerhouse faces its first "breather" of the season Saturday, but there is no rest for the weary.

While the victorious Orange take on Boston University in Beantown, Colgate clashes with the Ivy League leader, Yale, at New Haven. Cornell plays host to Princeton's unbeaten Tigers at Ithaca.

Ben Schwartzwalder's Orangemen completed the "meat" of their schedule last Saturday in Archbold Stadium with a Lamborghini-beckoning 7-0 triumph over Army before upstate New York's largest football crowd of the day—40,000-plus.

After BU, the Syracuse eleven Penn State, Holy Cross and Colgate. Although Colgate always proves troublesome, Syracuse's biggest hurdle in gaining the paper championship undoubtedly will be Penn State, a 7-6 upset winner over Ohio State Saturday.

Saturday's win over the Cadets came on the one-two punch of Jim Brown and Jim Riddle. Brown set up the Syracuse score on a 36-yard sprint to the Army five in the second quarter. Riddle powered his way for the six-pointer and Brown kicked the point.

With time running out in the game, the West Pointers put together a 67-yard march that ended at the Syracuse six-inch line. It was during Army's desperate jaunt that Brown caught Gil Roessler on the Syracuse 17 after the latter crashed the line and traveled 39 yards.

Brown amassed 125 yards in 22 tries for a four-game total of 496 yards. Princeton tailback Tommy Morris ran for three touchdowns and passed a fourth to lead the Tigers to an uphill 28-20 win over Colgate.

The victory was Princeton's fourth in as many starts. Colgate has a 2-2 record.

The Raiders took a 20-14 half-time edge on two touchdowns by Jack Call and a Guy Martin-to-Dick Randall pass.

Morris passed to Bob Kent for the Tigers' first-period score and added the rest on runs of 3, 4 and 3 yards.

Art Boland managed Cornell's only touchdown as Yale helped itself to first place in the Ivy League with a 25-7 win over the Big Red.

Boland picked up 61 of 62 yards in the last quarter touchdown march against the Eli subs. Upstate New York's undefeated group was cut to three Saturday when Cortland stunned Brockport, 45-0. It was Brockport's first loss in four games.

Alfred remained in the unbeaten class with a 46 to 12 win over Ithaca. Hobart won its fourth, 33-0, over Kenyon of Ohio.

Swedish shipyards built two destroyers for the Colombia navy; brought Colombia naval cadets from South America for training in operating the two vessels.

Groza accounted for all the Cleveland scoring with three field goals.

Tobin Rote passed for three touchdowns, one to Howton and two to Gary Knafelc. Howton broke a Green Bay record for most yards gained in a single game held by Don Hutson, making 257 yards on 7 receptions.

Blanda Misses 1st in 157 Kicks

Chicago, Oct. 21 (AP)—George Blanda, Chicago Bears quarterback, today missed his first extra point conversion in 157 attempts.

Blanda, who had never missed a conversion since he started booting them in 1951, place-kicked two after the Bears scored twice against the Baltimore Colts. Then, after the third Bear touchdown, his attempt went wide and to the left.

Blanda shook his head as if in disbelief and walked dejectedly to the sidelines.

En route to his amazing streak, Blanda shattered the National Football League record of 109 by Cleveland's Lou Groza.

NFA Rips Port, 24-6

Newburgh Free Academy scored an impressive 24-6 victory over Port Jervis Saturday to move into contention for the DUSO League championship.

It was the first start in the league for the Goldbacks who had won two games and dropped one against non-loop opposition. Port, the pre-season choice for the title, stands fourth with a disappointing record of no wins, 2 losses and a tie, and is now mathematically out of the race.

Billy Cotton, the Goldbacks' hard-running fullback was the big gainer against the Red Raiders. He got NFA off to a 6-0 lead with a one-yard plunge in the opening period. Port bounced right back when Bill Decker connected to Bob Boyd on a 35-yard scoring pass, but that was the extent of the Redmen's scoring.

Phil Conway scored from two yards out and Al Beccacio scampered 46 yards in the second period to enable the Hill City team to leave leading 18-6 at half time.

Beccacio tallied the final TD in the third session on a 27-yard maneuver.

Rangers Take Over 2nd Place

The New York Rangers today were in second place in the National Hockey League—a jump of two spots in one day—and apparently ready to make trouble for the leaders.

The Broadway Blues licked the Chicago Black Hawks last night, 4-1, while the Boston Bruins tied the league-leading Detroit Red Wings, 3-3.

That left the Wings with eight points and the Rangers with six. Montreal, Toronto and Boston were bunched with five apiece while the Black Hawks had one. Guy Gendron, who scored only five goals last season sent the puck into the net twice for the Rangers. He produced their first two goals and that was all they needed although Danny Lewicki and Andy Bathgate contributed insurance markers in the final chapter.

The Bruins had to come from behind twice to gain their tie with the Red Wings. The Wings zipped into a 2-0 lead, only to have Boston come back and tie it in the second period.

Dutch Reibel sent the Wings ahead again in the third period, but Vic Stasiuk tied it again for the Bruins. It was his second goal of the night.

Skull Murphy-The Great Scott In Wrestling Feature, Oct. 29

Skull Murphy, the 230-pound bundle of meanness and skull-duggery from Cork, Ireland, has been signed for the wrestling feature Monday, Oct. 29, at the municipal auditorium.

Promoter Ted Bayly of Troy said the bad man and current TV favorite out of Washington, would be pitted against The Great Scott, 226-pound roughhouse artist out of Camden, N. J.

Bayly said the balance of the card would be announced later. But the mere sight of Murphy and Scott at the Broadway arena is enough to attract a large gathering of the aficionados.

Murphy scored a solid hit in reverse with his villainous performance against Young Dick Steinborn in the heavyweight feature last week. Murphy won two out of three falls in one of the roughest bouts seen here in years.

Kraft's Toe Nips Middies, 14-12

Bill Kraft's educated toe proved the margin of difference as Peekskill shaded Middletown 14-12 Saturday for the Westchester county team's first win of the year. The Middies are winless in four starts.

Kraft booted the extra points after touchdowns by Larry Gallo and Doug Merritt. Merritt's score came on a pass from Kraft in the final period with the Middies ahead 6-0.

Gallo romped 53 yards midway through the period for the clinching TD.

In the fading moments, Gordie Berthoff whirled 26 yards for the Middies last score. John Bergamo missed the extra point for the second time.

Barthoff passed to end Bill Guilleto in his first period to give the Middies a 6-0 lead. The play covered 30 yards.

Kingston faces Middletown Saturday at the Mid-City.

Cange Scores 3 Touchdowns As Onteora Triumphs, 41-12

Hometowners Up Front

Formosts and GI Joe's Register HVBL Sweeps

Kingston teams occupy three of the first four places in the Hudson Valley bowling league as the result of three-game sweeps registered by Forst Formosts and GI Joe's Express over the weekend.

The league-leading Packers had three men shoot over 600 and a 3109 team slam to rout Walden Peppy's three straight. GI Joe's Express moved into a tie for fourth place by upending the powerful Middletown Merchants, 3-0, with a 2892 slam.

Hotel Newburgh clung to third place by a half game margin with a 3-0 sweep over Tony's Pizzeria, while Jones Dairy salvaged one set from Channel Master on the Ellenville lanes.

The standings:

Reserve halfback Charlie Cange, starting his first game ever, ran for three touchdowns to spark Onteora Central school to a lopsided 41-12 victory over outmanned Hunter-Tannersville Saturday at Tannersville.

Inserted in place of regular fullback Floyd Boland, who was ineligible because of scholastic difficulties, Cange came through in brilliant fashion. He scored in each of the first three periods as the Indians captured their second win to go along with a loss and tie.

30 Yard Sweep
Cange's first TD was a 30 yard end sweep. His other two were on reverses, the first covering 22 yards and the second 21.

Star halfback Ted Jensen, sound after an injury in Onteora's last encounter, scored two touchdowns and Bruce Weiderspeil the sixth and final TD. Jensen ran nine and 28 yards to paydirt and Weiderspeil nine up the middle.

Weiderspeil plunged over for four extra points. Jensen ploughed across after Cange's TD.

Onteora complemented its ground attack with an aerial blitz which paved the way for two scores. Jensen, who also does a great job passing, connected with ends Norm Boggs and Art Gribbins to set the stage for the Boiceville club's first pair of TDs. The pitch to Boggs was the longest, covering 42 yards. All told, Onteora amassed 82 yards overhead.

Big Gainers
Jensen and Cange were the big gainers on the ground. Jensen rushed for 99 yards in 10 cracks and Cange 97 in eight tries.

Weiderspeil, a promising sophomore, rolled up 53 yards in seven carries and quarterback Lou Vanacore 39 in four attempts.

Tannersville scored its touchdowns in the first and last periods. Quarterback Jim Healey tallied the first on a seven yard run and halfback Marty Goodrich the second on a 48 yard punt return.

Onteora closes out its season Saturday against Pine Bush. The contest will be played at Boiceville and will be the first on the new football field.

Sadler Captures Sports Car Race

Watkins Glen, Oct. 22 (AP)—Bill Sadler of St. Catharines, Ont., has won the first Glen Classic sports car race with a record-breaking average speed of 72.5 miles an hour over the Grand Prix course.

Sadler won yesterday at the wheel of his own "Sadler's Special."

The previous course record of 71.4 miles an hour was set last month during the Grand Prix races.

Robert Ryan of Buffalo, driving a Jaguar, was second; L. Kineman of Hamilton, Ont., was third in a Cad-Allard.

Yesterday's course was 57 1/2 miles long.

Georgia Tech in Good Spot To Cop Southeastern Crown

The Associated Press

If all goes according to expectations the remainder of the football season, the rambling wrecks from Georgia Tech won't turn into a bunch of mental wrecks, after all.

The state of Georgia Tech's mental health goes back two years, ever since Mississippi started winning the powerful Southeastern Conference title.

The Engineers thought they were the class of the conference—as they probably were, but in 1954 Ole Miss won the title and then last year, the Engineers made one mistake—they lost by two points to Auburn—and in slipped Mississippi again.

There is an old belief in the conference that Mississippi does not play a strong schedule. For example, it did not schedule Georgia Tech in either of its winning seasons.

This year, Mississippi has made a slip. Tulane licked the Rebels last Saturday, 10-3, and now the road appears clear for Georgia Tech to go all the way. And the Engineers have no intention of letting the title get away again.

Sad to relate, Georgia Tech goes against the very team that did it a favor this week—Tulane. Then the Engineers have Duke and Tennessee. After that, the coast is clear. Tennessee is the only problem Ole Miss has on the remainder of its schedule.

Besides Mississippi, which will try to pull itself together at the expense of Arkansas this Saturday, Ohio State and Texas Christian will be picking up the pieces. Both had been undefeated until they ran into mouse-

NBA Launches Eleventh Season Saturday, Oct. 27

The National Basketball Association will open its eleventh season on Saturday, October 27, with all eight teams swinging into action, in a doubleheader at New York and single games at St. Louis and Rochester. Philadelphia will oppose Syracuse in Madison Square Garden where Boston meets New York in the nightcap of the twin bill. Minneapolis visits St. Louis while Rochester plays host to Fort Wayne in the other inaugurals.

A total of 288 games will be played, with each of the clubs slated to engage in 72 contests, before playoffs commence during the middle of March. At that time the League's top six teams begin competition for the World's Championship.

Play 46 Twinbills

Each of the eight teams will contribute five games to the League's mandatory double-header program. In addition, six other doubleheaders are being created for a total of 46 twin bills. Only one contest remains to be listed to complete the schedule.

Beginning December 15th with the Philadelphia at Syracuse game and excluding December 29th a 12-game series of regular Saturday afternoon telecasts will start on the National Broadcasting Company network. Three additional Saturday afternoon telecasts are scheduled by NBC-TV for the League Playoffs which commence the week after the concluding game of the week, Saturday, March 9th. NBC-TV home contests will be carried twice during the season on Saturday afternoons at Syracuse, Fort Wayne, Rochester and Minneapolis. The other four teams in the League will carry the national TV game each during the regular season.

Ryff Rules 13-5 Pick In Comeback Attempt

BY MURRAY ROSE
(The Associated Press)

Loser of only two fights in his pro career, 24-year-old Frankie Ryff starts a "comeback" tonight in the hopes of regaining a place among the leading lightweights.

The handsome New Yorker meets ambitious Frankie Ippolito, a neighborhood rival, in the 10-round television feature (DuMont, 9:30 p. m. EST) at New York's St. Nicholas Arena. Ryff is the 13-5 favorite.

Rookie of Year

Rookie of the year for 1954 and a leading contender earlier this year, Ryff was knocked out of the ranking list on June 2 when he was flattened in the ninth round by sensational Larry Boardman at Madison Square Garden.

It was the first time that Frankie ever had been floored. His other loss was by decision to contender Ralph Dupas whom he had beaten earlier. After the Boardman kayo, Ryff took some time out to ponder retirement and then decided to give it one more try.

He is signed to take on Kenny Lane, fifth-ranking lightweight from Muskegon, Mich., at Miami next month. If he can win both fights, Ryff can zoom back into the elite group. His record is 20-2 with three kayos.

Ippolito, a 22-year-old getting his first crack at a "name" fighter, has a 19-3-1 record, including five kayos.

Machen 2-1

Undeclared Eddie Machen of Redding, Calif., is a 2-1 choice to his 18th straight victory on Wednesday when he opposes strapping Johnny Holman of Chicago in a clash of heavyweight contenders at Portland, Ore. Machen, seventh-ranked, has a 17-0 record, including 13 kayos. Holman's record is 30-

12-1, including 18 kayos. The 6-2 Chicagoan is eighth-ranked.

The 10-rounder will be broadcast and telecast (ABC 9 p. m. EST) coast to coast.

Bahamas, Gonzalez

Yama Bahama, one of the best of the unranked middleweights, tests his deft left hand against aggressive, wide-open Tony (Tex) Gonzalez, East Orange, N. J., at New York's Madison Square Garden Friday night (NBC TV, radio, 9 p. m. EST).

Bahama, a 23-year-old from Bimini, Bahamas whose real name is William Butler, has a 40-5-2 record. He had a winning streak of 23 broken on Aug. 9 by Pat Lowry, Gonzalez, winner of three straight, has a 2-5-1 record.

PRESENTING TROPHY—Ted Musialkiewicz, right, president of the Town of Ulster Little League, presents the 1956 championship trophy to Albert DiDonna, sponsor of D-Di Giants.

In usual order: Bernard A. Culloton, guest speaker; DiDonna, Thomas M. Davitt, toastmaster, and Musialkiewicz. (Freeman photo)

Culloton Urges Careful Training Of LL Players

More than 175 persons attended the first annual Town of Ulster Little League banquet Saturday night at the Ulster House No. 5 hall.

The principal speaker, Bernard A. (Bud) Culloton of Kingston, reminded the coaches and managers that the lessons Little Leaguers learn on the baseball diamond will remain with them through their lives.

Proper teaching, coaching and guidance of Little Leaguers, is extremely important, Culloton said. He warned against over-emphasis on victory and pointed out that the boys in Little League were learning important lessons in personal conduct and sportsmanship.

Davitt Is Toastmaster

Thomas M. (Tommy) Davitt, former local baseball star and former past president of the Kingston Athletic Association which introduced Little League baseball to Kingston, was the toastmaster.

Al Kilmer, president of Ulster House, led the group in the pledge to the flag. Edward R. Crosby, principal of the Lake Katrine school, gave the invocation. Ted Musialkiewicz, league president, opened the program and gave the welcome.

Among the personalities introduced by the toastmaster were Jack Lipton, Edward Dingley and A. H. Chambers. Little League sponsors introduced included: David Van Wageningen, president of the Ulster-Albany Avenue Businessmen's Association; John Vines, president, Ulster Kiwanis; Al Kilmer, president, Ulster House No. 5; and Albert DiDonna, D-Di Drive-In.

12-Year-Old Awards

Special awards were given to the 12-year-old boys leaving the league. By teams they were: Giants—John Hetsco, Dwain Caunitz, Charles Thomas, Joe LaLima; Indians—Bud Kaiser, Phil Bassett, Charles Fatum, M. Higgins, Gerry Woodvine; Yankees—Ed Koepfen, John Wojcio, Jason Ward, Joe Metcalf; Dodgers—William Gaddis, Lee Metrick, Raph Hall, William Benson.

Albert DiDonna, proprietor of D-Di's Drive-In, presented the championship awards to members of the D-Di Giants.

The personnel of the Ulster Little League champions for 1956 included: John Hetsco, manager; W. Miller, coach; G. Dall, coach. The players were: John Hetsco Jr., Ted Bream, Dwain Caunitz, G. DeVoe, Ken Zubay, Wayne Rundle, R. Nicoletti, George Atta-

Fumble Sets Up Score

Arlington Trips Highland With Last Period TD, 13-7

A fourth period fumble set the stage for Arlington's winning touchdown as the Maroons topped Highland, 13-7, in their traditional clash Saturday at Riverview field in Poughkeepsie.

Joe Kelly recovered the loose ball after it had sailed over the head of Bob Valentino who had stepped back to punt near mid-field. Kelly retrieved the leather on the 15 and six plays later Dave Harand bulldozed over for the winning touchdown.

Arlington took the lead in the first period when its stellar half-back Charlie Lancaster raced 37 yards to cap a 63 yard move. Bob Westcott added the extra point.

Highland bounced right back and drove 63 yards climaxed by a 15 yard jaunt by Ed Sagarese. Johnny Gersch set up the run with a brilliant 36 yard run. Valentino booted the extra point.

Highland gained 115 yards rushing and Arlington 99. Through the air, the Highlanders rolled up 64 yards to 24. First downs were even 8 and 8.

Olympic Cagers Retain Cain

Indianapolis, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Olympic basketball committee decided today to retain Carl Cain, of the University of Iowa, on the United States squad in spite of a chronic back pain that kept him out of an exhibition game last night.

Col. Harry D. Henshel, of New York, committee chairman, said exhaustive tests showed that Cain, star of Iowa's Big Ten champions last season, had no injury or organic trouble that could be aggravated by playing.

WIDE, WIDE WORLD

Albany is hardly more than an hour's drive from here. And yet, it must be a strange place indeed.

Study, for example, its effect upon the Republican gentleman now "representing" Ulster County in the State Assembly. If one were to judge by his VOTING RECORD, that one-hour drive to Albany is like a million-mile trip to another world.

Once in Albany, the Assemblyman suddenly seems to FORGET who sent him there—the farmers, factory workers, parents, shopkeepers, and all the others whose interests he should be looking out for. The issues don't matter. By his own admission he gets his orders from "above" and votes accordingly.

THESE FACTS ARE PROVEN BY A STUDY OF HIS OWN "I DON'T CARE," 100% PARTISAN VOTING RECORD!

Let's Be Specific . . .

For the past 3½ years, the people of Ulster County have had their interests sold down the river by the Republican Assemblyman in a series of "NO" votes on 17 key issues. All of these were measures intended to benefit the average man. For example . . . he has voted:

- AGAINST $2,000,000 flood relief for the area.
- AGAINST low rent housing.
- AGAINST extended unemployment benefits for dependents.
- AGAINST funds to broaden the powers of the State Committee Against Discrimination.
- AGAINST $200,000 State Aid for Day Care Centers for children of working mothers.

. . . and against 12 other bills introduced for the common good. Full details will be forthcoming.

WHAT CAN YOU DO ABOUT IT?

Election Day is only 2 weeks off. You will then have the opportunity to elect to the Assembly a man who will truly represent YOUR interests—not those of the county's entrenched political machine. That man is Gene Glusker, Mayor of Ellenville. Gene is the Candidate of the Democratic Party, and has the endorsement of many independent groups in Ulster County.

Gene Glusker has a great record as a fighter for the rights of the people in this ENTIRE AREA—not just Ellenville.

WE ASK YOU . . .

to judge this campaign on the basis of FACTS—not traditional party affiliations. Vote for the man who will fight FOR the people of Ulster County.

For Assemblyman, Ulster County Needs

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JOE STETSON
Dog Editor

Parasites are a year-round problem. True, in frost areas, there is some respite from fleas and ticks and hook worm cannot live in frozen ground, but lice or fleas that get on a dog can plague him continuously.

The dog's nest box is a splendid place to incubate fleas and a dog can carry hookworm to re-infest the area the following spring.

It's best, I think, to consider the cold months, not as a time to breathe a sigh of relief but as a time when nature can be on our side for a campaign to eliminate certain parasites completely from our area.

We should tackle the job now and stay with it until both dog and grounds are parasite-free.

If it is hookworm we're after, a dog must be treated several times at two-week intervals in order to get rid of hookworm that is traveling through the dog to its lungs and thence through the bronchial tubes and swallowed to pass through the stomach to the small intestines.

Infested Grounds

During this time the dog can acquire new infestations by traveling on infested ground. Frozen ground has been made safe. Unfrozen ground can be treated by salt or disinfectant.

Tape and round worms may need repeated treatments. The vet can determine when the dog is parasite free. As long as a dog has fleas, it is likely to be reinfested with tapeworm.

To eliminate fleas, ticks and lice, dips are effective. Powders with rotenone or pyrethrins and/or other insecticides and liquids containing the aforementioned in oil suspensions, and some with DDT, will eliminate pests effectively and are safe if used as directed. Quarters should be treated with vengeance to prevent recontamination.

It is most important that dogs—especially puppies—should not occupy treated quarters until they have been dried and well ventilated. Eyes can be protected while dipping or spraying by a drop of mineral oil in each eye before the dip or spray.

Chestnut Time

By FRANK TRIPP

What would you give to go chestnuttin' again; or even be able to buy a peck of those delicious American chestnuts that were so plentiful when you were a boy?

Hold on, old timer; you're way off the beam. A fellow has pretty near got to be collecting his social security to remember the chestnuts that you're writing about. Half of your readers never saw or tasted a native chestnut.

Frank Tripp

Even so, mister, I'm going to bring memories to that one in ten, as best I can. Nobody writes to them much anymore. It's all about atoms, bombs, jets, whoopie and a dough-diggin' cookie named Presley. Things that upset their stomachs—like too many chestnuts did.

Besides, the mail tells that a lot of kids wish they could go chestnuttin'—and the like. They ask about the days of their dads. Plenty of 'em have something bigger than Elvis on their minds.

IT WOULD BE good chestnuttin' time pretty soon now; in places where there's frost on the pumpkins. When the leaves come tumbling down, the majestic chestnut tree loosed its grip on its multitude of round prickly pods, opened them and dropped them to the ground. Inside each would be at least two beautiful brown meaty chestnuts, about the size of the end of a thumb.

Plenty of woodlots had a cluster of chestnut trees in their midst, before a blight killed them some 25 years ago. Today they are almost extinct. Man lost more than a succulent nut; he lost native timber too; a favorite and enduring interior trim for his home. I remember as beautiful the chestnut woodwork in my father's house.

KIDS WERE as impatient then as now. Before the frosts came, we tramped into the woods where we knew the chestnuts grew. We climbed the trees and climbed them to whip off the unripe burrs, to be the first to have a sack of chestnuts.

The premature nuts had to be dug out of their still green burrs, and had a bellyache in every handful. But who cared; by then green apples had made most of us immune.

When came a couple of sharp frosts the ground would be covered with the ripened, opened brown burrs and we would harvest the precious crop—between the vigils of farmers and their dogs. At least a peck of chestnuts was every youngster's goal, and many achieved it.

BY THEN, in town, stores sold them by the sack and quart; at peanut prices, a nickel a sack. At street corners, old men, who now would be eating from the public trough, helped earn their way by roasting chestnuts in iron frying pans over improvised charcoal fires.

The atmosphere of whole city neighborhoods was sweet with the aroma of roasting chestnuts; heightened by youngsters toast-ing their own on the hearth of the family fireplace.

Thus, the native chestnut entered metropolitan life, even to a toaster-a-block on New York's Broadway. All of northern America knew and loved the chestnut.

NOW AND THEN we see a native chestnut, but most that we get now are foreign chestnuts or from grafted efforts to reclaim the American tree.

Like so much in our synthetic age, the disappointing substitutes are far too large, skin-pocked and puckery; do not approach the sweet nutty taste of the original. There is nothing with which to compare that taste; no way to describe it.

More than a tree and its fruit passed out with the blight. An era moved out with it. An era when boys and girls went chestnuttin'; over the hills, into the woods, to breathe pure fresh air, romp and laugh 'mid nature. Grown men too.

An era when youngsters expected to exert themselves to earn the treats of life and grow strong bodies, doing it.

Chestnuttin' is only a symbol. Our fathers got all that they had that way.

We could grow better kids if they could go chestnuttin'.

Ruth Gordon Home Is Ransacked by Burglars

New York, Oct. 22 (AP)—Roof-top burglars ransacked the home of Broadway actress Ruth Gordon Saturday night and stole jewelry valued at $48,000. They also broke into the house

Miss Gordon said the thieves took 18 pieces of jewelry, including a massive 75-carat emerald ring worth $15,000. All the jewelry was insured.

The actress and her husband, playwright-director Garson Kanin, discovered the theft when they returned home from her Saturday night performance in "The Matchmaker" at the Royale Theater.

Country Better

Los Angeles, Oct. 22 (AP)—A scientist says country dwellers live five years longer, on the average, than their smog-breathing city cousins. Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel prize-winning chemist of the California Institute of Technology, told an interviewer Saturday: "People who live in smog-free cities will live perhaps that much longer than those who dwell in the smog."

Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi celebrate April 26 as Confederate Memorial Day, but North and South Carolina observe it on May 10, while Virginia marks it on May 30.

Law Specialist Dies

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 22 (P)—Funeral services for Atty. Milton L. Grossman, specialist in New York state matrimonial laws, will be held here tomorrow. Grossman died yesterday after a long illness. He was 47. He was the author of "The New York Law of Domestic Relations," published in 1947. This work was described as the first comprehensive study of the state's marriage laws in 20 years. Grossman was formerly chairman of the State Bar Assn.'s committee on domestic relations. He was born in Brooklyn, took his law degree at Brooklyn law school in 1932 and came to Rochester the following year.

Stayed Home But—

Salt Lake City, Oct. 22 (P)—Whitney C. Hansen didn't join in Utah's deer hunting over the weekend because he thought it might not be safe. Yesterday, while working in his driveway, he was struck by a 30-06 caliber bullet ricocheted off his garage across his back above the belt and imbedded itself in the ground. Moments later a second bullet slammed into the side of his house. The bullets apparently came from the mountains northeast of the city, not far from Hansen's home. Two hunters were accidentally shot to death yesterday in Utah.

Injured in Crash

Gananoque, Ont., Oct. 22 (P)—An Ottawa man and his wife were injured last night when their plane crashed in a farmer's field as they attempted to make an emergency landing. Hospital officials in Kingston, 15 miles south of here, said Lawrence Payne suffered a broken ankle and multiple cuts. His wife, Joan, suffered a broken spine, head cuts and concussion. The plane was demolished.

Two New TV Stations

Ottawa, Oct. 22 (P)—The Canadian Broadcasting Corp. announced today it will open two new television stations at two United States-leased air force bases in Newfoundland. The publicly owned corporation said in a statement that stations at Stephenville, on the west coast of Newfoundland, and at Goose Bay, in Labrador, will be operated as CBC stations under a resident manager appointed by the CBC. The stations, to be operated under a Canada-U. S. agreement for a five-year test basis, will be installed at Ernest Harmon Air Force Base in Stephenville and at Goose Bay air base.

Killed by Ricochet

Whitehall, Mont., Oct. 22 (P)—Clark Russell Lane, 10, was killed yesterday by a bullet which ricocheted after killing a rabbit. County Coroner Kyle Scott said the boy's brother, Gary, 13, fired a .22 caliber rifle at a rabbit. The bullet killed the animal, then glanced off a tree stump and struck his brother in the head. Gary carried his brother most of the way down Pump Hill on the Whitehall outskirts, then ran for aid. Clark died about two hours later. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lane. They moved to Whitehall a year ago from Santa Cruz, Calif.

Two Policemen Shot

Lincoln, Ill., Oct. 22 (P)—Two Illinois state policemen were shot early today and one was reported in critical condition after engaging in a gun battle with four heavily armed men. Officer Glen Nichols, about 35, was shot three times and critically hurt and Officer Robert Gollightly, about 28, was wounded once in the roadside gun fight on a U. S. Route 66 bypass. Sheriff William Keys of Logan county said two unidentified men were captured but two others involved in the affray escaped.

Powell's Fight With Dixiecrats, He Tells Church

Detroit, Oct. 22 (P)—Adam Clayton Powell, Negro Democratic congressman from New York who has announced he will support President Eisenhower over Adlai Stevenson, said last night "My quarrel is not with northern Democrats."
"My quarrel," Powell told an audience of about 4,000 in a Detroit Negro church, "is with the Dixiecrats."
"If I were a citizen of Detroit, I would vote the straight Democratic ticket," he declared.

Backs Williams
"You've got a governor here who has done a good job for Civil Rights," Powell said in reference to Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams who is seeking a fifth term.

Powell, told in advance that his speech was to be non-political, appeared disturbed when he learned he was to be introduced by Willis A. Ward, Negro Republican candidate for Congress from Detroit's 13th district. Powell became visibly angry when Ward implied in introductory remarks that Ward's Democratic opponent, Negro Rep. Charles C. Diggs Jr., the incumbent, had not supported Powell on Civil Rights issue.

"This is an unfair way to present me," Powell declared heatedly. "You've got a young congressman here," he said of Diggs, who has stood by me every step of the way."

Quarrel With Adlai
"I'm a Democrat who votes the straight Democratic ticket in New York," Powell asserted, adding:

"My quarrel is with Adlai Stevenson because Stevenson is the captive of the Dixiecrats." The Progressive Civil League, which claims to be non-partisan, sponsored Powell's appearance. Powell said he was supporting Eisenhower because the President had assured him of support for Civil Rights legislation.

"Soapy (G. Mennen) Williams is good enough for us in Michigan," Powell told his predominantly Negro audience, "but Soapy Williams doesn't mean a thing in Mississippi—it's just that simple and elemental."

Editor to Retire

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 22 (P)—La Fayette R. Blanchard, has announced his retirement as editor of the Rochester Democrat & Chronicle and editorial chairman of the Gannett newspapers. In a statement yesterday, Blanchard said the retirement would be effective Dec. 31. Blanchard was the 1951 president of the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. and had been with Gannett Co., Inc., since 1933.

Report Boats Seized

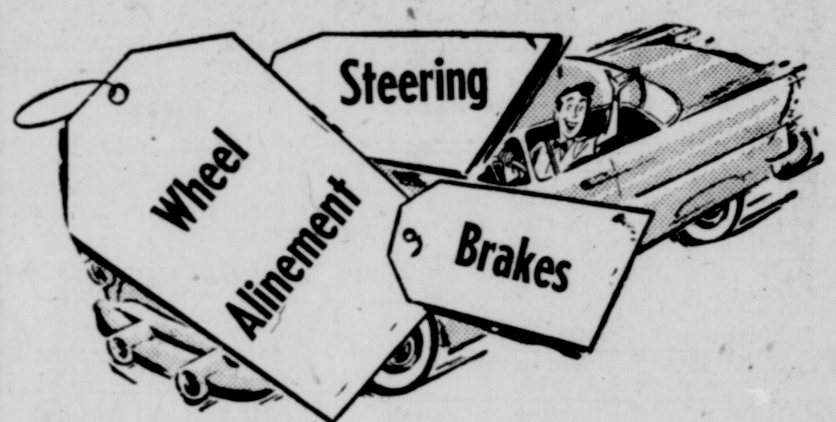

Muroran, Japan, Oct. 22 (P)—The lighthouse of Cape Nossapu reported today four Japanese fishing boats were seized by Russian patrol boats near the Soviet-occupied Habomai Islands. They were the first boats to be captured since the two nations agreed last week to end a technical state of war. The lighthouse keeper said the fishing boats were seized by the Russians two miles west of Suisho Island and escorted to Yuri Island. The two islands are part of the Russian-occupied Habomai. In Tokyo, the Maritime Safety Board confirmed the report. The end-of-war declaration has yet to be ratified.

You don't have to be a PENNY PINCHER

Getting ahead financially is not a matter of "pinching pennies." Quite to the contrary! Actually you can spend money more happily (because free from worries and misgivings) once you have embarked on a program of systematic saving.

First step is to establish the amount that you reasonably can and most certainly will save each payday. Then see to it that these dollars go promptly into your savings account every week... before they have a chance to go elsewhere. You'll have more fun spending what's left... when you do your saving FIRST!
